Mother Bitter As Daughter's Leg Is Cut Off

CLEVELAND (AP) — Blonde Mrs. Lily Simko was confused, brokenhearted, but most of all she was bitter — at everyone. Three floors up in an operating room, surgeons were amputating the right leg of Christine, her 14-year-old daughter.

Seated in a corridor of Metropolitan General Hospital, Mrs. Simko remained unreconciled to the facts. "What kind of life can my daughter have now?" she asked as sobs broke her voice.

Christine had a life-or-death question hanging over her. She had a malignant tumor in her right hip. Doctors agreed that only removal of the leg - including the hip—could save the girl's life. Otherwise, life expectancy was reduced to 6-18 months.

Chance To Be Cured

Now, Christine has a reasonable chance to be cured over a five-year period. Every week and month brings added hope, doctors say.

Four surgeons completed the operation in five hours Monday. All went smoothly. Christine will be out of bed in a few days. She will walk, first with crutches and then under physical therapy treatment with an artificial limb. Since her hip is gone, the limb will be attached from a strap around the waist.

Mrs. Simko never consented to the operation. Doctors said they believe she feared Christine would one day blame her for the loss of the leg.

The girl was a ward of juvenile court. She had run away from home several times and was a behavior problem. The mother, who is on state aid-to-dependent relief, does not work. When doctors couldn't get permission from Mrs. Simko, they asked juvenile court last week to allow the operation. Judge Walter G. Whitlach gave permission for the operation.

Letters Pour In

Because "everyone kept bugging me about the operation," the frightened Christine ran away from the hospital in her bedroom gown last Tuesday night. She was found across town in her east Cleveland home the next morning.

Christine returned to the hospital, saying she was ready to face her fate. But Mrs. Simko still blamed the court, the doctors, social workers and everyone connected with her daughter's case.

"Oh, why did everyone keep the facts from her and from me?" Mrs. Simko asked. "They said she always ran away and got into trouble. The doctors operated on her leg so she won't be able to run anymore. They'll always know where to find her —she'll always be in a chair. Oh, she'll just fret and fret."

During the past weeek, mail from well-wishers has poured into the hospital from almost every state and some foreign countries. "I know Christine will feel better when she reads the letters," Mrs. Simko said.

Mrs. Simko is a divorcee. Christine's father disappeared six years ago.

The blonde woman from Leicester, England, married an GI. She came to America and had two children, a son who now is 15 and Christine.

Tax Compromise Sought Today In Lansing Session

LANSING (AP) — Democrats prepared today to meet Gov. George Romney "on his own ground" but with ideas of their own in an effort to rescue tax reform from impending death.

In a two - hour caucus Monday night, House Democrats agreed to meet with Romney to discuss possible compromise.

Senate Democrats, holding a caucus of their own today, were expected to join their House colleagues in agreeing to the meeting.

"We're going in to listen, but we will be interested in how the governor responds to some fundamental questions," said Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski.

Agreement Unlikely

Leaders of both parties appeared resigned to failure of the legislature to agree on bi-partisan tax reform, and many lawmakers were saying flatly the effort was dead.

Pressure to call a halt to the special session—and return later to take up implementation of the new constitution — was apparent in both houses when lawmakers returned Monday.

Lesinski said today's meeting was at Romney's invitation but would not be limited to Romney's own program, already revised broadly.

Democrats, he said, will be prepared to discuss proposals for assuring provision in the program for mental health, schools, local units of government, tax relief for the beer industry and for senior citizens.

He said some in Monday night's caucus, attended by most House Democrats and four senators, showed "great disappointment that the governor has abandoned the senior citizens."

"In his letter to me he struck out prospects of state assistance for senior citizens," said Lesinski.

Many Absentees

A call went out for all members absent Monday night to attend the Romney meeting.

About 15 House members were absent from the caucus and it was not expected all of them would respond to the call, particularly some from the Upper Peninsula.

House Democrats said a condition of the meeting was that it be open to newsmen.

The question of whether Republican leaders would be invited was not taken up in the caucus, they reported.

In the Senate, Sen. Garry Brown, R - Schoolcraft, introduced a resolution which would permit the printing of bills to implement the new document before they are introduced.

Ten House Democrats announced a move, planned for today, to have the tax committee discharged from further consideration of the Romney tax bills.

With a two - thirds vote required, the move was regarded as no more than a token effort.

Rep. Riemer Van Til, R-Holland, introduced a resolution to adjourn Thursday and return at a later date to take up the Constitution bills — a move which would end the struggle over tax reform.

"There seems to be a total lack of unanimity as to what 'fiscal reform' may be at this time," he said.

Nixon Says He'll Stay Off Ballot

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says he can conceive of "no circumstances whatever" under which he would be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

The former vice president says that if his name comes up as a possible candidate in the New Hampshire or Oregon primaries he will "do everything I can legally to get my name out."

Nixon told a news conference Monday night those parimary races should be between New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, an announced candidate for the nomination, and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who is expected to oppose Rockefeller.

Nixon said he appreciates the remarks made about him by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower on a television program Sunday, but he believes he can "best serve my party and my country as a constructive critic." He said he plans about one speech a month and will continue to write articles on current events but "there is no devious conspiratorial plan thereby to become a candidate."

Eisenhower said that if a deadlock developed at the Republican convention, Nixon would be "one of the likely persons" to be considered for the nomination "because he is...a very knowledgeable and a very courageous type of person."

"Deadlocks are a thing of the party," said Nixon, who lost to Kennedy.

Asked about a "draft-Nixon" movement started in Los Angeles during the weekend, Nixon said Los Angeles is "likely to start almost any kind of movement." He said such a move had neither his knowledge nor approval.

Nixon said Goldwater is "obviously in the lead today" in New Hampshire, where Rockefeller has already started campaigning.

Nixon said he will not at this time commit himself to Goldwater or Rockefeller. He said his choice will be greatly influenced by his judgment on "which man can better lead the nation on foreign policy."

Ice Show Back After Tragedy

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) —The Holiday on Ice touring company, shaken by disaster in Indianapolis 13 days ago, was back on its blades here today as a crowd-pleasing, professional entertainment unit.

A test-of-mettle performance Monday night went off without a hitch before a near-capacity crowd of 3,200 persons at Civic Auditorium.

It was the first time for the unit to appear in public since Oct. 31, when a gas-triggered explosion ripped the Indianapolis Fairgrounds Coliseum. The explosion killed 71 spectators, the latest victim dying in a hospital Monday, and injured about 380 others.

It took guts, but we made it," a girl skater commented in the wings after the Mardi Gras "pinwheel" finale.

She referred to the point at which the Indiana tragedy struck.

Musical conductor Ben Stabler said at intermission that the performers were nervous Monday night.

"This afternoon at rehearsal," he said, "we got to the pinwheel part and we had a few bad moments when we couldn't go on, but we got over it."

For others in the show it was "great to be back to work."

Search Given Up For 3 Lost On Buffalo Flight

DETROIT (AP) — The Civil Air Patrol Monday called off its search for three Detroit men missing since Nov. 2 on a flight to Buffalo, N.Y.

A search by the Royal Canadian Air Force ended the night before after covering a reported 22,400 miles.

Lost on the Buffalo flight were William S. Mouser, Detroit News bridge writer; and William M. Flashenberg and William A. Nazzaro.

Battle Lines Drawn In Race To White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — From command posts a few doors apart, men who want Sen. Barry Goldwater to run for president and lieutenants of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller have drawn their battle lines.

Their tactics differ, but their goals are the same: Top spot on the Republican presidential ticket and a run for the White House—three blocks down the street, but millions of votes away.

A self-styled missionary for the Rockefeller presidential cause is out to spread the New York governor's gospel in Washington—and "not just for the exercise."

Looking For Dollars

Half a block up Connecticut Avenue, a high-powered draft Goldwater movement is looking for dollars and delegates to pledge to the Arizona senator.

Alexander M. Lankler, a tall, 34-year-old Washington lawyer, presides over Rockefeller's political office. Actually, it's Lankler's law office, with a stack of Rockefeller posters and pamphlets in the corner.

"This is a missionary station," says Lankler. "The mother church is in New York."

"We're in the political liaison business, not in the hoopla and headquarters business," he adds. Lankler, a transplanted New Yorker, was deputy manager of Rockefeller's gubernatorial campaign in 1962.

Once again, he has put aside his law practice for politics. "The governor is in this thing to stay, and so am I," he says. "And not just for the exercise. We think we can win."

Picture Is "Bargain"

Down the street, you can buy a Goldwater button for a penny or a bigger-than-life picture of the senator for $3. "It's one of our biggest bargains," says a Goldwater girl of the seven-by-nine foot picture.

In the half-dozen rooms of national draft Goldwater headquarters, a staff of 15 is quarterbacking the drive to try to make the Arizona senator next year's Republican presidential nominee.

Rockefeller has declared himself in the race, Goldwater has not.

"We're in this draft movement to demonstrate that Goldwater has a fighting chance on delegates and funds," says finance chairman Frank J. Kovac.

Kovac, former executive director of the Republican National Finance Committee, adds the draft Goldwater people "envision the establishment of a moving vehicle for the senator so that when he announces, he

Blonde Wanted As Stickup Girl At Watersmeet

WATERSMEET (AP) — A young blonde woman who wears a tan leather jacket and blue jeans is wanted for pulling a stickup.

Police of Michigan and Wisconsin have sought her since her $50 weekend armed holdup of a sporting goods shop in this Gogebic County community in the Upper Peninsula.

The woman robbed Ted Zygadlo's sports shop, fleeing to a waiting car after forcing Zygadlo to fill brown paper bag with money. She had ordered his wife and two customers to the rear of the store.

Zygadlo said he got a gun and fired two shots at the car as it went out U. S. 45 toward Wisconsin.

Red Tape Bars U.S. Help For Poor Of Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP)—The United States seems to have missed a good chance to help the poorest people of Peru because of red tape, plus what South Americans consider an overdeveloped "banker mentality" in Washington.

The $10-million incident is small by comparison with overall U.S. assistance to Peru, which in the past two years has amounted to about $150 million with more to come. But it is important because the new government of President Fernando Belaunde Terry seems determined to move fast on reform and development programs.

The question is whether the United States can move fast also.

Hand Tools Needed

A few weeks ago Belaunde asked the United States for a pick and shovel loan of $10 million. He said he wanted to buy simple hand tools for the millions of indian peasants in the mountainous interior of the country. He laid out a plan to set up 144 tool lending centers—one in each county seat.

Everyone agrees these simple tools are the things the Indians need most—to dig ditches for water supply, to build roads, to cultivate the land. Most have only primitive wooden digging sticks and short-handled wooden hoes.

U.S. officials here hope Belaunde's goal of raising the living standards of the Indians and integrating them into modern economic life can be realized. The Indians, about half Peru's 10 million population, are illiterate and poverty-stricken.

Belaunde first put his proposal before U.S. aid agency officials. They pointed out that the United States already had approved a limited roadbuilding plan, including a supply of bulldozers and similar heavy machinery, which would serve as a pilot project for an expanded program.

Loan From Finland

It takes an average of about two years to get approval for a new proposal, and Belaunde was asked to wait and see how the pilot project worked out.

Gunshot Kills Hunter; 2 Die In Crash On M-77

By The Associated Press

Three deer hunters met death Monday, one by gunshot and two others in a highway crash.

Clayton E. Cunningham, 49, of (326 N. Saginaw) Pontiac, was shot fatally while hunting south of Matchwood in Gogebic County of the Upper Peninsula.

State police and county authorities were investigating to determine all the facts.

Found dead on a trail, Cunningham had been shot in the right arm and chest by a 12-gauge shotgun. Hunters of the area reported hearing two shots and a man's cry "help, I've been shot." They began searching and found Cunningham's body. A coroner's jury Monday night ruled he was shot by a person unknown. An investigation continued.

Cunningham had been hunting in an area 35 miles east of Ironwood with his wife, Ida, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ervine Hyzer of Pontiac.

The highway crash, on M 77 north of Seney in the Upper Peninsula, killed three persons. Two cars met head-on.

The Upper Peninsula early special deer season began Saturday. It opens a week ahead of the regular Michigan season.

Two Battle Creek men, Ray Stevens, 68, (137 Lakeview), and Raymond Lucas, 64, (130 Battle Creek Ave), both hunters, were killed in the collision along with William Klasner, 53, of Grand Marais.

State police said Klasner, driving south, apparently crossed the centerline of the two-lane blacktop highway. Stevens and Lucas were northbound.

Klasner was born Jan. 7, 1910. He is survived by his wife, Esther, who is Schoolcraft County health nurse. The body is at the Beaulieu Funeral Home, Newberry. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Thursday at the First Lutheran Church in Grand Marais and the body will be taken to Saginaw for burial.

Meanwhile, belated reports told of a fire in a tented Upper Peninsula deer camp Sunday in which four hunters suffered burns.

The camp was destroyed. The fire reportedly was caused by sparks from a wood stove. The tent and all gear were lost in the flames. The camp was in the Robbin's Pond area of Ontonagon County.

William Benbow, 48, of Benton Harbor, suffered second degree burns on his right hand. His wife, Helen, and their son, Ronald, suffered lesser burns as did Walter Satlzman, 50, of Coloma. All were treated at a hospital in Phelps, Wis.

Senate Reopens Estes Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — After more than a year in mothballs, a Senate investigation of Billie Sol Estes resumes today with the Texas promoter on the witness stand.

For months he was headline news as stories of his dealings under government farm programs, his huge discount sales of liquid fertilizer and clothing gifts to officials were unraveled.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee now helps to learn from Estes whether political influence helped him amass a multimillion-dollar fortune at the age of 35.

His financial empire in early 1962 collapsed in bankruptcy, law suits and allegations of scandal. He has been convicted of state and federal fraud charges from which he is appealing.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., told a reporter Monday he understands that "even Estes' own lawyers don't know" whether the Pecos, Tex., wheeler and dealer will testify or invoke his constitutional right to decline to testify.

Boiler Explodes On Steamship; Help Summoned

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — The steamship Hercules Victory reported today one of her boilers had exploded and the other was afire.

She asked ships in the area, 330 miles northeast of Bermuda, to stand by.

The Coast Guard sent the cutter Yakutat and an amphibian airplane to the assistance of the 7,602-gross ton ship.

The ship is owned by Hercules Steamship Corp. and managed by Ocean Cargoes Inc., of New York.

Soviets Clear 3 U.S. Convoys

BERLIN (AP)—A U.S. Army convoy traveled across East Germany today without hindrance from the Soviets, despite their recent attempts to tighten autobahn controls.

The convoy of 13 vehicles and 54 men arrived in West Germany from Berlin at midafternoon. It had left the checkpoint outside Berlin this morning.

The convoy was the third sent onto the Autobahn by the Western allies since the Russians held up a U.S. Army group of 12 vehicles and 44 men for 41 hours last week at Marienborn when the Americans refused to dismount to be counted.

All three convoys were of the size for which the allies refuse to permit a Soviet head count, carrying less than 30 men in addition to the driver and co-driver of each vehicle.

Erhard Plans First U.S. Visit

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany and U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball today discussed Erhard's forthcoming visit with President Kennedy.

Erhard is to go to Washington Nov. 25. It will be his first visit to the United States as chancellor. Ehard succeeded Konrad Adenauer last month.

Victory Drive Of Sir Alec's Party Launched

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's new Conservative government embarked today on a crucial struggle for victory in next year's general election with a call for modernization of British industry to get the full productive benefits of the age of automation.

The government, in Queen Elizabeth's speech from the throne opening the new session of Parliament, also announced plans for sweeping improvements in social services.

The speech, written by Sir Alec's Cabinet, promised to strive for world peace and "to support the freedom of West Berlin."

Queen Awaits Baby

The queen's speech was read to a joint session of the House of Lords and the House of Commons by the lord chancellor, Lord Dilhorne. The queen has canceled public appearances because she is expecting her fourth child.

As Parliament reopened, political expectancy was higher than at any time since the 1959 general election. A classic contest seemed in the making between Douglas-Home, a 60-year-old Scottish aristocrat who shed an earldom to succeed Harold Macmillan, and the Labor party's rapier-tongued, 47-year-old leader, Harold Wilson.

Recent special elections and public opinion polls indicate strongly that if national elections were held today, the Conservatives would suffer a humiliating defeat and Britain would have a Labor government for the first time since 1954.

Can't Raise Money?

Douglas-Home is relying on a lavish program of housing and educational expansion and industrial reform to reverse the anti-Conservative trend. Wilson contends the government can't raise the money to make good on its promises.

In advance of the throne speech, Education Minister Sir Edward Boyle Monday night announced a four-year expanded program of school construction costing 80 million pounds ($224 million) a year.

Boyle said building levels would be increased a third to handle Britain's growing primary and secondary school population and replace worn-out buildings. He said 24 million pounds ($67 million) would be set aside in 1965-66 for technical and industrial schools, and 4 million pounds ($11.2 million) for schools for handicapped children.

In the queen's speech today the government also promised to:

Further centralize Britain's defense structure.

Plan redevelopment of depressed areas in central Scotland and northeast England.

Improve the transport and road system.

Move forward with the development of higher education to increase the nation's pool of qualified scientists and engineers.

Increase the rate of home building.

Avoid Inflation

The basic aim, the government said, is to encourage growth without inflation and to modernize those sections of Britain still living in a 19th century world of old-fashioned heavy industry.

In the field of foreign policy, the queen's speech expressed confidence that patient diplomacy would insure peace, saying:

"The nuclear test-ban treaty signed last summer in Moscow was the result of many years of patient effort by my government in cooperation with successive administrations in the United States, and has been welcomed throughout the world.

"Encouraged by this, my government will pursue the cause of peace with renewed confidence and vigor."

Search Given Up For 3 Lost On Buffalo Flight

DETROIT (AP) — The Civil Air Patrol Monday called off its search for three Detroit men missing since Nov. 2 on a flight to Buffalo, N.Y.

A search by the Royal Canadian Air Force ended the night before after covering a reported 22,400 miles.

Lost on the Buffalo flight were William S. Mouser, Detroit News bridge writer; and William M. Flashenberg and William A. Nazzaro.

Battle Lines Drawn In Race To White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — From command posts a few doors apart, men who want Sen. Barry Goldwater to run for president and lieutenants of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller have drawn their battle lines.

Their tactics differ, but their goals are the same: Top spot on the Republican presidential ticket and a run for the White House—three blocks down the street, but millions of votes away.

A self-styled missionary for the Rockefeller presidential cause is out to spread the New York governor's gospel in Washington—and "not just for the exercise."

Looking For Dollars

Half a block up Connecticut Avenue, a high-powered draft Goldwater movement is looking for dollars and delegates to pledge to the Arizona senator.

Alexander M. Lankler, a tall, 34-year-old Washington lawyer, presides over Rockefeller's political office. Actually, it's Lankler's law office, with a stack of Rockefeller posters and pamphlets in the corner.

"This is a missionary station," says Lankler. "The mother church is in New York."

"We're in the political liaison business, not in the hoopla and headquarters business," he adds. Lankler, a transplanted New Yorker, was deputy manager of Rockefeller's gubernatorial campaign in 1962.

Once again, he has put aside his law practice for politics. "The governor is in this thing to stay, and so am I," he says. "And not just for the exercise. We think we can win."

Picture Is "Bargain"

Down the street, you can buy a Goldwater button for a penny or a bigger-than-life picture of the senator for $3. "It's one of our biggest bargains," says a Goldwater girl of the seven-by-nine foot picture.

In the half-dozen rooms of national draft Goldwater headquarters, a staff of 15 is quarterbacking the drive to try to make the Arizona senator next year's Republican presidential nominee.

Rockefeller has declared himself in the race, Goldwater has not.

"We're in this draft movement to demonstrate that Goldwater has a fighting chance on delegates and funds," says finance chairman Frank J. Kovac.

Kovac, former executive director of the Republican National Finance Committee, adds the draft Goldwater people "envision the establishment of a moving vehicle for the senator so that when he announces, he

Blonde Wanted As Stickup Girl At Watersmeet

WATERSMEET (AP) — A young blonde woman who wears a tan leather jacket and blue jeans is wanted for pulling a stickup.

Police of Michigan and Wisconsin have sought her since her $50 weekend armed holdup of a sporting goods shop in this Gogebic County community in the Upper Peninsula.

The woman robbed Ted Zygadlo's sports shop, fleeing to a waiting car after forcing Zygadlo to fill brown paper bag with money. She had ordered his wife and two customers to the rear of the store.

Zygadlo said he got a gun and fired two shots at the car as it went out U. S. 45 toward Wisconsin.

Modernized Industry New Goal In Britain

Red Tape Bars U.S. Help For Poor Of Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP)—The United States seems to have missed a good chance to help the poorest people of Peru because of red tape, plus what South Americans consider an overdeveloped "banker mentality" in Washington.

The $10-million incident is small by comparison with overall U.S. assistance to Peru, which in the past two years has amounted to about $150 million with more to come. But it is important because the new government of President Fernando Belaunde Terry seems determined to move fast on reform and development programs.

The question is whether the United States can move fast also.

Hand Tools Needed

A few weeks ago Belaunde asked the United States for a pick and shovel loan of $10 million. He said he wanted to buy simple hand tools for the millions of indian peasants in the mountainous interior of the country. He laid out a plan to set up 144 tool lending centers—one in each county seat.

Everyone agrees these simple tools are the things the Indians need most—to dig ditches for water supply, to build roads, to cultivate the land. Most have only primitive wooden digging sticks and short-handled wooden hoes.

U.S. officials here hope Belaunde's goal of raising the living standards of the Indians and integrating them into modern economic life can be realized. The Indians, about half Peru's 10 million population, are illiterate and poverty-stricken.

Belaunde first put his proposal before U.S. aid agency officials. They pointed out that the United States already had approved a limited roadbuilding plan, including a supply of bulldozers and similar heavy machinery, which would serve as a pilot project for an expanded program.

Loan From Finland

It takes an average of about two years to get approval for a new proposal, and Belaunde was asked to wait and see how the pilot project worked out.

Gunshot Kills Hunter; 2 Die In Crash On M-77

By The Associated Press

Three deer hunters met death Monday, one by gunshot and two others in a highway crash.

Clayton E. Cunningham, 49, of (326 N. Saginaw) Pontiac, was shot fatally while hunting south of Matchwood in Gogebic County of the Upper Peninsula.

State police and county authorities were investigating to determine all the facts.

Found dead on a trail, Cunningham had been shot in the right arm and chest by a 12-gauge shotgun. Hunters of the area reported hearing two shots and a man's cry "help, I've been shot." They began searching and found Cunningham's body. A coroner's jury Monday night ruled he was shot by a person unknown. An investigation continued.

Cunningham had been hunting in an area 35 miles east of Ironwood with his wife, Ida, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ervine Hyzer of Pontiac.

The highway crash, on M 77 north of Seney in the Upper Peninsula, killed three persons. Two cars met head-on.

The Upper Peninsula early special deer season began Saturday. It opens a week ahead of the regular Michigan season.

Two Battle Creek men, Ray Stevens, 68, (137 Lakeview), and Raymond Lucas, 64, (130 Battle Creek Ave), both hunters, were killed in the collision along with William Klasner, 53, of Grand Marais.

State police said Klasner, driving south, apparently crossed the centerline of the two-lane blacktop highway. Stevens and Lucas were northbound.

Klasner was born Jan. 7, 1910. He is survived by his wife, Esther, who is Schoolcraft County health nurse. The body is at the Beaulieu Funeral Home, Newberry. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Thursday at the First Lutheran Church in Grand Marais and the body will be taken to Saginaw for burial.

Meanwhile, belated reports told of a fire in a tented Upper Peninsula deer camp Sunday in which four hunters suffered burns.

The camp was destroyed. The fire reportedly was caused by sparks from a wood stove. The tent and all gear were lost in the flames. The camp was in the Robbin's Pond area of Ontonagon County.

William Benbow, 48, of Benton Harbor, suffered second degree burns on his right hand. His wife, Helen, and their son, Ronald, suffered lesser burns as did Walter Satlzman, 50, of Coloma. All were treated at a hospital in Phelps, Wis.

Senate Reopens Estes Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — After more than a year in mothballs, a Senate investigation of Billie Sol Estes resumes today with the Texas promoter on the witness stand.

For months he was headline news as stories of his dealings under government farm programs, his huge discount sales of liquid fertilizer and clothing gifts to officials were unraveled.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee now helps to learn from Estes whether political influence helped him amass a multimillion-dollar fortune at the age of 35.

His financial empire in early 1962 collapsed in bankruptcy, law suits and allegations of scandal. He has been convicted of state and federal fraud charges from which he is appealing.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., told a reporter Monday he understands that "even Estes' own lawyers don't know" whether the Pecos, Tex., wheeler and dealer will testify or invoke his constitutional right to decline to testify.

Boiler Explodes On Steamship; Help Summoned

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — The steamship Hercules Victory reported today one of her boilers had exploded and the other was afire.

She asked ships in the area, 330 miles northeast of Bermuda, to stand by.

The Coast Guard sent the cutter Yakutat and an amphibian airplane to the assistance of the 7,602-gross ton ship.

The ship is owned by Hercules Steamship Corp. and managed by Ocean Cargoes Inc., of New York.

Soviets Clear 3 U.S. Convoys

BERLIN (AP)—A U.S. Army convoy traveled across East Germany today without hindrance from the Soviets, despite their recent attempts to tighten autobahn controls.

The convoy of 13 vehicles and 54 men arrived in West Germany from Berlin at midafternoon. It had left the checkpoint outside Berlin this morning.

The convoy was the third sent onto the Autobahn by the Western allies since the Russians held up a U.S. Army group of 12 vehicles and 44 men for 41 hours last week at Marienborn when the Americans refused to dismount to be counted.

All three convoys were of the size for which the allies refuse to permit a Soviet head count, carrying less than 30 men in addition to the driver and co-driver of each vehicle.

Erhard Plans First U.S. Visit

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany and U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball today discussed Erhard's forthcoming visit with President Kennedy.

Erhard is to go to Washington Nov. 25. It will be his first visit to the United States as chancellor. Ehard succeeded Konrad Adenauer last month.

Victory Drive Of Sir Alec's Party Launched

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's new Conservative government embarked today on a crucial struggle for victory in next year's general election with a call for modernization of British industry to get the full productive benefits of the age of automation.

The government, in Queen Elizabeth's speech from the throne opening the new session of Parliament, also announced plans for sweeping improvements in social services.

The speech, written by Sir Alec's Cabinet, promised to strive for world peace and "to support the freedom of West Berlin."

Queen Awaits Baby

The queen's speech was read to a joint session of the House of Lords and the House of Commons by the lord chancellor, Lord Dilhorne. The queen has canceled public appearances because she is expecting her fourth child.

As Parliament reopened, political expectancy was higher than at any time since the 1959 general election. A classic contest seemed in the making between Douglas-Home, a 60-year-old Scottish aristocrat who shed an earldom to succeed Harold Macmillan, and the Labor party's rapier-tongued, 47-year-old leader, Harold Wilson.

Recent special elections and public opinion polls indicate strongly that if national elections were held today, the Conservatives would suffer a humiliating defeat and Britain would have a Labor government for the first time since 1954.

Can't Raise Money?

Douglas-Home is relying on a lavish program of housing and educational expansion and industrial reform to reverse the anti-Conservative trend. Wilson contends the government can't raise the money to make good on its promises.

In advance of the throne speech, Education Minister Sir Edward Boyle Monday night announced a four-year expanded program of school construction costing 80 million pounds ($224 million) a year.

Boyle said building levels would be increased a third to handle Britain's growing primary and secondary school population and replace worn-out buildings. He said 24 million pounds ($67 million) would be set aside in 1965-66 for technical and industrial schools, and 4 million pounds ($11.2 million) for schools for handicapped children.

In the queen's speech today the government also promised to:

Further centralize Britain's defense structure.

Plan redevelopment of depressed areas in central Scotland and northeast England.

Improve the transport and road system.

Move forward with the development of higher education to increase the nation's pool of qualified scientists and engineers.

Increase the rate of home building.

Avoid Inflation

The basic aim, the government said, is to encourage growth without inflation and to modernize those sections of Britain still living in a 19th century world of old-fashioned heavy industry.

In the field of foreign policy, the queen's speech expressed confidence that patient diplomacy would insure peace, saying:

"The nuclear test-ban treaty signed last summer in Moscow was the result of many years of patient effort by my government in cooperation with successive administrations in the United States, and has been welcomed throughout the world.

"Encouraged by this, my government will pursue the cause of peace with renewed confidence and vigor."

Families, GIs City Huntsmen In Cornell Area

There's an old expression that the more some things change the more they are the same, but that doesn't seem to apply to deer hunting.

It's changing.

Sample the hunt in the Cornell-Woodlawn area of Cornell Township, Delta County along Delta County Road 426 and you'll find heavy hunter concentration and a great variety of methods.

Dave Deloughary and his son, Mike, of Schaffer played host at the tent camp of Frank Varner of Jackson, Mich., in the absence of Varner and his three guests from Lower Michigan and Ohio. They have a large, compartmented tent set up on an 80 of timberland beyond Cornell which Varner bought recently.

When visited Monday afternoon the tent camp of a group of airmen from Kincheloe Air Force Base and K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base had been struck and some of them were sitting around a big open fire yarning, in a light rainfall. The camp had had 11 men and 5 boys in two tents and passers-by on CR 426 remarked the picturesque setting with the tents silhoutted in the glow of a big campfire.

T-Sgt. Montelle Babb of Nebraska, stationed at Kincheloe near the Sault said "We moved in Saturday morning. None of us have got a buck but we've had a lot of fun and we'll be hunting over near Kincheloe when the season opens there. I got one last year, a mule deer, near Denver. It's a chance to relax and my son, Emil, loves it, of course, because he gets out of school.

"We tried using spent shotgun shells to mark trails in the woods, but you can't see them so we've been using K-Ration boxes and they work fine, even in the early morning. Hansel and Gretel would be surprised if they could see our trails."

Airman 1-c Leon Lewis of Lexington, Ky., stationed at Kincheloe said they'd seen a lot of does. "You can just about kiss 'em they come so close," he said.

At Woodlawn Mrs. William Bonkowski of New Baltimore, Mich., was at the Bonkowski camp. With her was her daughter, Mrs. Herschel Cebulski of Utica, Mich., and her son, Brian Cebulski. The husbands were out hunting.

"We've had the camp for 11 years,' said Mrs. Bonkowski "and if we can sell our home in New Baltimore we're going to move here and build a home when we retire. My husband is a custodian at the New Baltimore school. He was born and raised in Detroit but he's hunted up here for 16 years.

Cebulski, an accountant with General Motors, hunted deer one year before his marriage to Miss Bonkowski 12 years ago and has hunted every year since his marriage with his father-in-law.

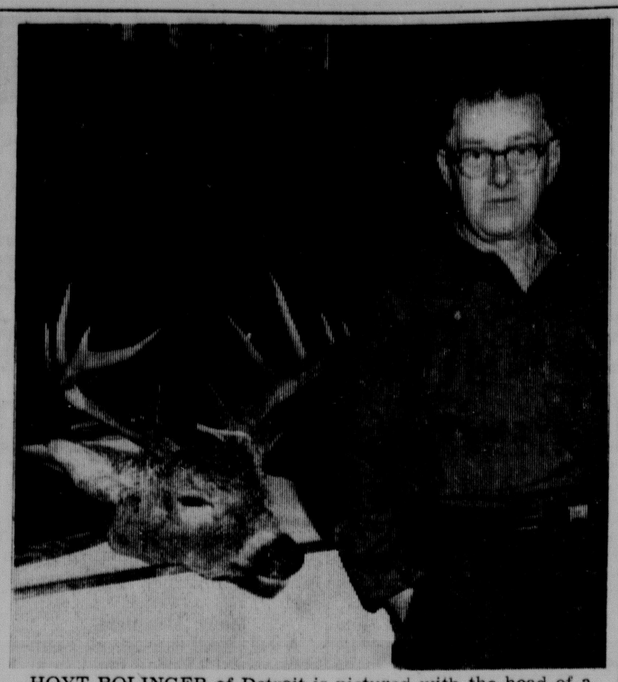

Hoyt Bolinger of Detroit works for the U.S. Rubber Co. there and has a vintage log cabin next to the Bonkowski camp. It has dovetailed corners and other fine axemanship. Only the walls were standing when Bolinger acquired it, but he has restored it. He comes up for the partridge hunt and at other times of year.

Saturday morning at 8:05 he shot a 10 point, 185-pound buck and on Sunday one of his party took a doe on a permit. He's owned the camp for 17 years "and we've never been blanked," he said, "we've got deer every year.'

Hunting with him are Luke Calloway of Livonia, William Rohman, Detroit, Carl Stark, of Washington, Mich., and Harry and Clifford Dantz of Detroit.

Patients admitted to St. Francis Hospital on Monday included: Stuart Salters, New Haven, Mich.; Vernon Long, 1224 Superior Ave., Gladstone; Mrs. William Gunville, 321 S. 14th St.; Ben Loodeen, 1427 N. 16th St.; Kim Boerschinger, 320 S. 17th St.; Mrs. John Whitney, 323 N. 17th St., Gladstone; Marie Gagnier, 119 N. 10th St.; Mrs. Eva McCauley, 27 Main St., Wells; Mrs. Isaline Beauchamp, 307 S. 11th St.; Michael Bazinet, Rock; Mrs. Reino Kivekas, Rock; Keith Apelgren, 807 Minnesota Ave., Gladstone; Mrs. Robert Whitens of Hermansville; Suzanne King, 1013 2nd Ave. S.; and Ann Buckvac of Ensign.

Mrs. Campbell 65, Dies Here

Mrs. Jane Campbell, 65, who had resided at the Peterson Hotel, died at 3 a. m. today in St. Francis Hospital where she was a patient for five days.

She was born in Champion, Mich., on June 10, 1898. Most of her life had been spent in Detroit, and she had lived for the past four years.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Jack (Lou) Arndt of Detroit, Mrs. J. A. (Agnes) Pirlot and Mrs. Harold (Florence) Desmond of Escanaba; and three brothers, Clement and Fred Rivard of Escanaba and William of Champion.

The body is at the Allo Funeral Home, where arrangements have not been completed as yet.

London To Clean Old Cathedral

LONDON (AP) — The lord mayor of London has launched a campaign for $420,000 to clean up St. Paul's Cathedral. An inch-thick layer of soot and grime has turned the white stones of the old church to jet black.

"I am not one of those who admire dirt on fine architecture," said C. James Harman, the lord mayor. "I hope that we may see St. Paul's as it looked when Sir Christopher Wren finished it."

Five Fined On Game Charges

Five men have been arrainged in justice courts in Gladstone for violation of the game laws and were ordered to pay fines and costs totaling $186.90.

Robert Stubbs of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Frank Chivers, Birmingham, Mich., pleaded guilty in Justice A. J. Mortier's court to charges of headlighting deer and were ordered to pay fines of $50 and costs of $7.50 each.

They were arrested by Conservation Department officers in Bay de Noc Township on Nov. 10 and were in court the following day.

Nicholas Broeders of Gladstone Rte. 1, charged with carrying an uncased gun in a car, pleaded guilty today in Justice Ross P. Davis' court and was ordered to pay a fine of $10 and costs of $7.30. He was arrested Nov. 8 in Baldwin Township.

Two hunting companions, Francis Black, 61, of Cooks and John Mullin, 32, of Utica, Mich. were each fined $20 plus costs of $7.30 on conservation charges when arraigned before Justice Mortier today. They were arrested by Conservation officers Sunday in Garden Township.

Black pled guilty to transporting a loaded rifle in an automobile and Mullin to possession of a loaded rifle in an auto.

London To Clean Old Cathedral

LONDON (AP) — The lord mayor of London has launched a campaign for $420,000 to clean up St. Paul's Cathedral. An inch-thick layer of soot and grime has turned the white stones of the old church to jet black.

"I am not one of those who admire dirt on fine architecture," said C. James Harman, the lord mayor. "I hope that we may see St. Paul's as it looked when Sir Christopher Wren finished it."

Five Fined On Game Charges

Five men have been arrainged in justice courts in Gladstone for violation of the game laws and were ordered to pay fines and costs totaling $186.90.

Robert Stubbs of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Frank Chivers, Birmingham, Mich., pleaded guilty in Justice A. J. Mortier's court to charges of headlighting deer and were ordered to pay fines of $50 and costs of $7.50 each.

They were arrested by Conservation Department officers in Bay de Noc Township on Nov. 10 and were in court the following day.

Nicholas Broeders of Gladstone Rte. 1, charged with carrying an uncased gun in a car, pleaded guilty today in Justice Ross P. Davis' court and was ordered to pay a fine of $10 and costs of $7.30. He was arrested Nov. 8 in Baldwin Township.

Two hunting companions, Francis Black, 61, of Cooks and John Mullin, 32, of Utica, Mich. were each fined $20 plus costs of $7.30 on conservation charges when arraigned before Justice Mortier today. They were arrested by Conservation officers Sunday in Garden Township.

Black pled guilty to transporting a loaded rifle in an automobile and Mullin to possession of a loaded rifle in an auto.

Boy Is Slain During Fight

MARQUETTE — A 14-year-old Marquette boy was fatally stabbed in a fight with another boy before school Monday morning.

Victim was William ("Billy") Erb, the son of State Police Trooper and Mrs. LaMar A. Erb of Lakewood.

He was stabbed by Michael DePeitro, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel DePeitro, 540 Bluff St.

The stabbing occurred between 7:15 and 7:30 in front of a home on Ohio St., just west of Third St.

Billy Erb was dead on arrival at St. Luke's Hospital. He was taken to the hospital by John Perault, a school traffic officer who stands duty at the corner of Third and Ohio Sts.

"It looks as though he was stabbed through the heart," City Police Sgt. Michael Dooley said.

"This fight actually started Friday. In fact, the two boys were involved in a fistfight in school Friday and the fight was broken up by a teacher. The boys then agreed to meet this morning and fight it out," Sgt. Dooley said.

"Apparently it started this morning as a fistfight. However the DePeitro boy had a knife, and one thing led to another," Sgt Dooley said.

William R. Erb was born Nov. 18, 1950, in Kalamazoo. He was a resident of Lakewood for three years and was a student at the Graveraet Junior High School.

He was a member of the Southern Baptist Church, Harvey.

He is survived by his parents and two brothers, Stephen and Daniel, at home.

THE COPPER CHEST or "time capsule" which will be filled with Centennial Year mementoes was made by Francis Guay at the municipal garage. The cover will be brazed on, forming a moisture-proof seal to protect the contents. (Daily Press Photo)

Open In 2063:

Time Capsule To Hold Record Of Centennial

Books, records and other mementoes of the Escanaba Centennial, together with a message of the City Council to the people of Escanaba who will open the "time capsule" in 2063, will be enclosed in a copper box and placed in a crypt at Municipal Dock on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 28.

City Manager George Harvey of the Centennial Corp. executive committee, suggested the "time capsule" as one of the more meaningful projects of the Centennial Year.

Preparations have been made by the city to place a copper box — 16 inches wide, 21 inches long and 10½ inches deep — in a small vaultlike space in concrete beneath a ship's anchor near the flag pole at the Municipal Dock.

Will Be Preserved

The selection of materials to be placed in the copper container is the responsibility of the directors of the Delta County Historical Society, who will arrange for the burial of the "time capsule" with suitable ceremony at the dock at 11 a.m. on Thanksgiving Day. The public is invited to attend the event, said George Embs, Society president.

Copies of the Escanaba Centennial program, of The Century Book, the Centennial issue of the Daily Press, official Centennial records and a letter of transmittal addressed to "The People of Escanaba of the Year 2063" and signed by the City Council will be among articles in the box.

These articles will be placed in the box, the copper cover applied, and then brazed shut to make it air and water tight.

Will they survive the passing of a century?

Jerry L. Parr, who resides at Ford River and is a chemical engineer employed by the Escanaba Division of Mead Corp., believes they will. He is a native of Seymour, Ind., is a graduate of Rose Polytechnic, and engineering school at Terre Haute, Ind., and has been employed by Mead for the past five years — the last four in Escanaba.

Perhaps Voices?

"It's my educated guess that there will be some loss in the paper products — the newspapers, the letters, and others — but this does not mean they will turn to powder, only that there will be some deterioration," he said.

Parr said the copper itself will withstand corrosive action in such a situation for 100 years. So long as the contents are protected from moisture they will be preserved.

The Century Book "As Years Pass By," a history of the community, is "printed on good book paper and will stand up well against the effects of time," said Parr. The paper is 70 pound Enamelith gloss manufactured by Mead at Escanaba and was a gift of the industry to the Centennial Corp.

The possibility of placing both magnetic tape and plastic phonograph recordings in the box is being explored. Assuming the people of 2063 will have the equipment for "playing" these, they will be able to hear the voices of the Escanabans of 1963. So long as the tape recording does not come into contact with a magnetic field it will "last forever," said electronics engineers.

As for all of the contents, a tight seal made by brazing the copper lid to the box will assure that destructive moisture is kept out — and the "time capsule" will in 2063 reveal the Centennial mementoes almost as good as new.

Joe Gregoire hunting out of John Kallman's camp at Woodlawn, downed a 130 pound spike horn Monday.

Don Derusha of 331 S. 9th St. killed a 110-pound spikehorn Sunday morning while hunting from his camp, the Dew-Drop-Inn, at Stonington.

Bud Skoglund of Flat Rock filled his license Sunday at 5 p. m. hunting out of Watson. His kill was a 150 pound 8-pointer.

Art Petersen, 1804 5th Ave. S., shot an 8-point buck, weighing about 180 pounds Monday at 11 a. m. He was hunting in the Helps area.

Wilbert Westerberg of Ypsilanti killed a 10-point buck weighing 175 pounds while hunting from the Westerberg camp at Rock Saturday about 4:30 p. m.

A proud hunter is Eric Froberg, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Froberg, Mounted Route. He brought down his first buck a 6-pointer, weighing 115 pounds, Sunday morning, hunting out of the Froberg cottage in the Danforth area.

John Moore, 226 S. 10th St., Gladstone, is among the lucky weekend hunters. He bagged a 10-pointer weighing 180 pounds at 7:20 a. m. Sunday. John and his father, Cleve Moore, were hunting on the Stonington Peninsula, one of the better hunting areas in Delta County when John filled his license. Cleve has yet to see a deer this season.

Successful hunters, who have registered their kill at Bill's Bar in Rapid River are: Erwin M. Jozwiak, Detroit, a 4-point buck, weighing 150 pounds, north of Rapid River; Jim Westbrook, Detroit, a prize 13-pointer, weighing 224 pounds, hunting out of the Crow's Nest cabin, north of Rapid River; James Brinkmeier, South Rockwood, Mich., a 4-point buck, 150 pounds, north of Rapid River.

Hunters bagging their bucks in the Hermansville area included: Was Mach of Maywood, Ill.; Ted Ayotte of Dearborn; Miss Mary Lou Kenny of Felch; Jack Dulek of Escanaba; Walter Neimann of Powers; Jim McKinney of Dearborn; Gary Barribeau of Milwaukee; Eugene Stockero Jr., of Milwaukee; and Harry Peters, Bob Smith, Lester Machia, Julius Holterman, Walter Peters, Bob Nelson, Tuellio Marana, Miss Karen LaCasse and Edward Johnson, all of Hermansville.

Kay Kearns, 17, daughter of Mrs. Otella Kearns, 814 Ludington St., has done it again! This year the feminine nimrod bagged a 135 pound doe while hunting Sunday morning. Kay may be remembered by a feature story in last year's Daily Press when she shot her first buck after experiencing several unforgettable events such as having to sit quietly while a pair of amorous deer made love. This year's hunting trip offered no such momentous remembrances, however.

Used Clothing Campaign Starts

For the 16th consecutive year Upper Michigan Catholics in November contribute usable clothing, bedding and shoes to the national effort sponsored by the Bishops' Committee in the name of Catholic Relief Services, National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Campaign kits have been sent to all parish and mission units of the Diocese of Marquette with sorting, packing, shipping instructions and labels for the cartons to be directed to the New York City warehouse of CRS-NCWC, 140 Morgan Ave.

The clothing collected across the nation is distributed to the world's needy free and with no regard for race, creed or color. This year allocations were dispatched to 47 countries, the most recent to northern Italy to assist the people made destitute by the dam tragedy, Msgr. David P. Spelgatti, campaign director, reports.

The success of this appeal, he said depends upon the generosity of Catholics and their friends. "So much can be done," he said, "to the poor of Latin America, awakening Africa, southern Europe and the Near and Far East that we have an obligation before God to take the time and make the effort to do so.

"Engage in Operation Closet this week. Send your usable garments, pairs of wearable shoes and bedding to the collection depot, your parish church or the nearest Catholic church."

Wallace Gardner Taken By Death

Wallace M. Gardner, a native of the Escanaba area, died in a Norwalk, Calif., hospital at 11 p. m. Monday. He was 36 years old and death was caused by leukemia.

He attended Escanaba High School and had served in the U. S. armed forces.

Mr. Gardner was born in Escanaba on July 20, 1927.

His survivors are: his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gardner of Wells; his wife, the former Beverly Casey and two children, Gail and Lee; four brothers, David residing in California, Robert in Kansas, Bernard and Roger at home; five sisters, Mrs. Leonard (Jean) Mileski, Mrs. Joseph (Roberta) Horn and Mrs. Ernest (Carol) Starnes, all of California; Mrs. Richard (Diane) Delvauv of Wells, and Mrs. Tom (Lois) Quinn of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held in California.

Daughter Dies At Ann Arbor

Lynn Larson, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Larson of 204 W. Dayton, Flint, former Escanaba residents, died Nov. 6 at the University Hospital in Ann Arbor. Services were held Saturday, Nov. 9, at Hill Funeral Home, the Rev. Donald Wenstrom officiated, and burial was in Evergreen Cemetery.

Lynn was born Sept. 20, 1959, in Cheboygan. Surviving besides the parents are a brother, Larry, a sister, Laura, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Larson of Grand Blanc and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moody of Holly.

The Larson family moved from Escanaba to Flint in September.

Obituary

JACOB NAUER

Funeral services for Jacob Nauer were held at 9 a. m. today at St. Patrick's Church with the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin B. Melican officiating. Burial was in Bark River Cemetery. Pallbearers were John Kallman, Elroy LaCosse, Ed Motto, Abe and Art Getzloff and Clarence Larson.

Complete funeral services for George Williams were held at 1:30 p.m. today at the Anderson Funeral Home chapel. The Rev. Karl J. Hammar officiated. Burial was in Gardens of Rest Cemetery.

Kiwanis Speaker Says Individual Is Key To Peace

Progress toward peace, prosperity or freedom depends on the individual and can't be promoted by appointment of committees, Escanaba Kiwanis Club members were told Monday by the Rev. Robert J. Yonkman, Episcopalian vicar at Gladstone.

"The difference is you", the speaker declared. "What you do as an individual makes a world of difference. Your club and your community can be no better than the people in them."

Referring to the tributes paid on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, to the men who gave their lives for their nation in the cause of peace, the Rev. Yonkman said that peace can come only through the efforts of the individual. He urged a checking of direction to determine where the community is going, and a checking of the sense of values in that progress.

The program Monday was arranged by Earl Owen.

Saint Francis Xavier Cabrini was canonized in 1946.

Ironwood Area Gets Blizzard

By The Associated Press

Ironwood dug out from under one fooot of heavy snow today in the first major snow storm of the season for Michigan's Upper Peninsula. The snowfall continued throughout the morning.

Roads were reported open but slippery with traffic moving normally.

The storm struck Monday night and has moved as far east as Marquette.

Besides Ironwood—near the Wisconsin border on the extreme west end of the state—heavy snowfall was reported around Wakefield where up to six inches had fallen by dawn. Roads were reported slippery eastward to Bruce Crossing along M 28 near the intersection of U.S. 25.

Snow also fell at Calumet in the Keweenaw Peninsula, and at L'Anse.

State Police reported difficult driving on U. S. 2 and other roads east to Marenesco and beyond.

This year allocations were dispatched to 47 countries, the most recent to northern Italy to assist the people made destitute by the dam tragedy, Msgr. David P. Spelgatti, campaign director, reports.

The success of this appeal, he said depends upon the generosity of Catholics and their friends. "So much can be done," he said, "to the poor of Latin America, awakening Africa, southern Europe and the Near and Far East that we have an obligation before God to take the time and make the effort to do so.

"Engage in Operation Closet this week. Send your usable garments, pairs of wearable shoes and bedding to the collection depot, your parish church or the nearest Catholic church."

Kiwanis Speaker Says Individual Is Key To Peace

Progress toward peace, prosperity or freedom depends on the individual and can't be promoted by appointment of committees, Escanaba Kiwanis Club members were told Monday by the Rev. Robert J. Yonkman, Episcopalian vicar at Gladstone.

"The difference is you", the speaker declared. "What you do as an individual makes a world of difference. Your club and your community can be no better than the people in them."

Referring to the tributes paid on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, to the men who gave their lives for their nation in the cause of peace, the Rev. Yonkman said that peace can come only through the efforts of the individual. He urged a checking of direction to determine where the community is going, and a checking of the sense of values in that progress.

The program Monday was arranged by Earl Owen.

Saint Francis Xavier Cabrini was canonized in 1946.

Ironwood Area Gets Blizzard

By The Associated Press

Ironwood dug out from under one fooot of heavy snow today in the first major snow storm of the season for Michigan's Upper Peninsula. The snowfall continued throughout the morning.

Roads were reported open but slippery with traffic moving normally.

The storm struck Monday night and has moved as far east as Marquette.

Besides Ironwood—near the Wisconsin border on the extreme west end of the state—heavy snowfall was reported around Wakefield where up to six inches had fallen by dawn. Roads were reported slippery eastward to Bruce Crossing along M 28 near the intersection of U.S. 25.

Snow also fell at Calumet in the Keweenaw Peninsula, and at L'Anse.

State Police reported difficult driving on U. S. 2 and other roads east to Marenesco and beyond.

U.P. Tourism Indicted

The tourism industry in the Upper Peninsula is more severely characterized in the recently published study of prospective economic impact of the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore than it has probably ever been before.

The economic study was prepared for the National Park Service by the Institute for Community Development of Michigan State University. MSU has done as much for development of U.P. tourism as any other agency and probably more. What its community development specialists working on the Pictured Rocks Lakeshore report had to say comes from an old friend who has labored long and hard and with little result at times to upgrade U.P. hosting of visitors.

"Tourism, like mining, forestry and agriculture, is resource based," the report states. "It differs from the other industries, however, in that it has been expanding nationally as a source of employment. While there have been tourism enterprises in the region throughout the past century, its most rapid expansion has taken place in the post-World II period.

"Since 1958, the Upper Peninsula tourism industry has suffered stagnation or even decline; in the meantime, national trends continue up. This appears due, in a large measure, to the predominantly exploitative character of the Upper Peninsula tourism industry; the area has been so richly endowed with natural attractions that it has only been necessary to 'mine' the tourists who come. In this respect tourism has a quality akin to mining and earlier logging in the region.

"The industry consists mainly of isolated businesses providing lodging, food, and automobile services. There is relatively little attention by private operators to providing attractions and vacation services.

"Along with emergency, in the latter 1950's, of aggressive programs of tourism development and promotion by a number of competing regions, the Upper Peninsula permitted its regional advertising program to lapse. This combination of factors—weak attempts at providing a vacation service, a period of suspension of regional advertising, and aggressive development promotion by competing regions—has cost the Upper Peninsula a serious loss in its popular image as a vacation destination.

"There are positive factors; among them are ski developments, boat trips, and mine and factory tours. In addition area advertising has been resumed. But, to date, these have not had sufficient impact to overcome the ground lost to competing regions.

"Alger County (site of the Lake shore) tourist expenditures have been as high as $2.9 million in 1957 but dropped to $1.3 million by 1961. The drop was part of a stagnation or decline across the entire region. This decline is confirmed not only by year to year estimates of total expenditures, but by traffic counts over the region, crossing at Mackinac Bridge and attendance at state parks.

"Decline in Upper Peninsula tourism occurred in spite of its rich endowment of varied recreational resources. The decline is also counter to a rise in national demand for recreation."

★ ★ ★

The study suggests that the pull of recreational visitors to the proposed National Lakeshore at the Pictured Rocks will depend upon how much the U.P. develops its tourism image. If it remains passive the study expects the park to build up an income for the region of $2.9 million in 10 years, but if the U.P. gets on the stick tourist-wise it could be double that, including the income from employment in the park itself, which would be the job equivalent of 27 full time employes.

The Lakeshore would help substantially to attract tourists to the U.P., but as even its proponents say, it is only part of a picture that should be painted to realize the Peninsula's potential for tourism income.

The Doctor Says:

Infection May Affect Heart

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Q — What does my doctor mean when he says I have fluid around my heart? What causes it and is it serious?

A — When fluid collects in the sac around your heart it may be due to an infection or a tumor, a condition which could severly damage the organ. The accummulated fluid means the heart has less room to expand. This reduces the force of the heartbeat and interferes with the circulation of the blood. Antibiotics may control the infection before any real damage is done, but surgical drainage may be necessary.

Q — I am in my early 30s and have small brown moles on my face and neck. I have had a few removed but I keep getting new ones. What causes them? Is there anything I can take to stop them from coming?

A — The most likely cause of your moles is heredity, although they often do not appear until adult life. Then, as in your case, their number increases with the years. There is no drug that will prevent them. This type of mole has no relationship to cancer.

Q — My doctor says I have prostrate gland trouble but he doesn't say what causes it. It has flared up three times in the last two years. My doctor gives me massages, hormone shots and antibiotics but there has been very little improvement.

A — Any condition that has been present, even though not continuously, for three years must be considered chronic, and is likely to be hard to cure. If treatment by your family doctor has not helped you, you should have a thorough examination by a urologist who will first determine the cause of your trouble and will then prescribe a course of treatment which may include massage, medicine, physiotherapy, or even surgery, depending on his findings.

Q — I would like to know what is wrong with my husband. He is 50 and has started wetting the bed at night. He is a very sound sleeper. Could drinking beer cause this?

A — If, as you imply, your husband has not been a bedwetter until recently, this symptom cannot be blamed on drinking any kind of fluid. The most likely cause is a slowly enlarging prostate. Check soon with your doctor.

Washington Comment

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — John F. Kennedy, B. A. Harvard 1940, and a "Havad" Overseer to boot, won't like this.

But when U. S. Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel, B. A. Harvard 1938, cancelled out on a luncheon talk before the Harvard Club of Washington, some of the loyal alumni muttered, "There goes the Harvard vote to Goldwater."

What happened was that Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., had to cancel out on a speaking engagement at Oregon State. She twisted Keppel's arm to go to Oregon and make the speech for her. Since the congresswoman is an important member of the House Education Committee now considering Keppel's legislation for next year, he couldn't refuse.

The speech may help Rep. Green get re-elected and it may save the aid-to-education legislation. But if the national ticket loses in November, '64, the Harvards will know whose fault it was.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, after his three-week battle to get the on-again, off-again compromise civil rights bill through the House Judiciary Committee, summed up his feelings with this story:

"Some time ago, I saw two men straining over a heavy crate and a hand truck. It looked as though they needed help, so I took off my coat and pitched in.

"After struggling for about 15 minutes without any luck, we took a break. 'Fellows,' I said, 'I just don't think we're ever going to get this crate onto the truck.'

"'Get it on?' they cried. 'We're trying to get it off!'

"That illustrates how I've felt the last three weeks."

William Howard Taft, 27th president of the United States, was the first in his family to graduate from Yale and enter politics. A number of his descendants have followed in his footsteps, including his son, the late Ohio senator, Robert A. Taft, and his grandson, Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

Taft also started the family tradition of vacationing at the Murray Bay Golf Club in Canada's Quebec Province. The Tafts still hold to the tradition as this story about the president's great-grandson, William Howard Taft IV, illustrates:

Bill was playing the customary excellent Taft round of golf when a stranger approached to ask how long the boy had been playing.

"Well, sir," Bill answered, "I've played here all my life. And my father has been playing here all his life. Before that, my grandfather played all his life. And my great-grandfather was president—of the Murray Bay Golf Club."

Mrs. Ruby Nicholson has been installed worthy matron of Ida Chapter, O. E. S., at Manistique.

Need for post war planning is a crying need, says George E. Bishop, secretary of the U. P. Development Bureau. Bishop states that 52,000 people have left this part of the state, some to enter armed services and others to places where employment is more readily available. Many of these will return to Upper Michigan after the war, says the secretary and inducements must be provided to keep them here.

A Parent-Teacher Association has been organized at the Ford River Mill school. Mrs. Catherine Rehnquist is the new organization's president.

PERVERSION FOR PROFIT

Sunday evening, Nov. 3, a movie was shown at Junior High Auditorium depicting the demoralizing effects of filthy magazines and books, especially upon young people. During September and October members of Citizens for Decent Literature, who sponsored this movie, had appeared before the various PTAs and a few church groups calling attention to the prevalence of smut on newsstands and its availability to children and teen agers.

The sponsoring organization announced the date of the movie (no admission charge) and urged parents and other interested people to attend the showing and learn something about the multi-million dollar business of printing pornography for profit.

At the showing of the film at Junior High only about 80 persons were present, including various members of the sponsoring group. Where were all the others who should have been concerned about the filth that is ready and waiting for young people to devour?

Perhaps the general public doesn't believe what they are being told about the type of printed filth available on newsstands. The next time you stop in to buy a Saturday Evening Post, Readers' Digest, etc., take time to have a good look at the rot that is conspicuously displayed at some news stands—the lurid pictures, sex exploitation, homosexuality, horror stories of sadism and so on.

Quite a few of our better stores are policing this type of magazines and books they receive from their distributor and rejecting the undesirable ones. But not enough of them are doing it yet. The watchful cooperation of all good citizens is needed in order to clean up news stands where this type of printed matter is being sold either through indifference or a strong urge for profit.

An outstanding chief of police of Chicago has stated that in almost every crime of perversion in the area it has been found that the criminal was an avid reader of pornographic magazines and books. Are we going to stand idly by and have the minds and spirits of our children demoralized for profit.

Boom Days Back In Silver Mines

DENVER (AP) — A silver boom — possibly one of the biggest ever — is under way in the Colorado Rockies.

Long-closed mines are being reopened all along the mineral belt — the Continental Divide that runs from north to southwest along the state's jagged mountain peaks like the crooked spine of a shimmying dragon.

Not since the boom years of the free silver era around the turn of the century has so much interest been shown in silver in the state, says G. A. (Bud) Franz, Colorado's deputy mining commissioner.

So far this year 52 mines have been reopened, although not all are expected to be fully operational for at least six months. Still, that's nearly equal to the total of all silver mines operating in the state last year.

None of these mines, however, is an exclusively silver operation. Most of them in addition to silver, mine gold, zinc, lead and copper.

But Franz says that the mines which are being reopened will be operated mostly for their silver content.

Why the biom?

Silver is now selling near its all-time high — $1.30 an ounce.

Silver production in Colorado last year was about $2.1 million, nowhere near the all-time record of $50.3 million in 1909. Franz predicts this year's modest increase will make it about $2.5 million. Next year, providing all the reopened mines are operating, he predicts silver production in the state could reach $10 million.

But if you're thinking of heading for the hills with a mule and a pick, your chances for staking a new claim aren't very good.

"Most of the veins have been uncovered. New ones can be located only by exploration of a highly technical nature," Franz says. His advice is to hire a good mining engineer and let him go out and look.

Names of these long-dead mines that are being reborn ring with a peculiarly Old West sound: Cascade Tunnel, Capital Prize, Black Eagle on Clear Creek, Keystone at Crested Butte, Bull Domingo, California in Dolores County, Camp Bird and, naturally, Last Chance.

Some have proven value. Camp Bird, dormant only about four months, was sold earlier this month for a reported $1 million. More than $50 million in gold, silver, lead and zinc has been taken from the mine.

Others, especially some of the smaller newly reopened mines — are part-time operations, with owners going there on weekends to search for silver veins.

How much silver is actually left in the Rockies?

Franz says, "Most oldtimers agree there's as much left in there as there's been taken out." He adds, "It might even be three or four times as much."

Colleges Face Jam By 1965

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Why college presidents get grey:

There will be 40 per cent more high school graduates in 1965 than there were in 1963.

A larger percentage of those graduates will go on to college.

Ninety percent of the American public believes all boys should go to college, 77 per cent believes all girls should.

National defense and space science threaten to dominate the campus scene, at the expense of the humanities and arts.

These facts, figures and opinions are being discussed at the annual meeting of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges. The 97 institutions represented enroll 27 per cent of all the nation's college and university students.

William C. Eckermen of the University of Michigan told the meeting Sunday night a national survey indicates 96 per cent of the public believes a college education is more important now than it was 30 years ago.

But, he said, 72 per cent believe the most important thing about such an education is "training for a good job." The next most often quoted reasons for going to college were "social acceptance" and "getting to know the right people."

The survey, by Michigan's Survey Research Center is still under way. Final tabulations will be reported next summer.

Even those who approve of college education in general had some criticisms, Eckerman said.

The criticisms most often heard are that college education may create snobs, make youngsters think they are getting something for nothing and may tend to make them adopt radical ideas or break down their standards of morality.

Washington Comment

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — John F. Kennedy, B. A. Harvard 1940, and a "Havad" Overseer to boot, won't like this.

But when U. S. Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel, B. A. Harvard 1938, cancelled out on a luncheon talk before the Harvard Club of Washington, some of the loyal alumni muttered, "There goes the Harvard vote to Goldwater."

What happened was that Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., had to cancel out on a speaking engagement at Oregon State. She twisted Keppel's arm to go to Oregon and make the speech for her. Since the congresswoman is an important member of the House Education Committee now considering Keppel's legislation for next year, he couldn't refuse.

The speech may help Rep. Green get re-elected and it may save the aid-to-education legislation. But if the national ticket loses in November, '64, the Harvards will know whose fault it was.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, after his three-week battle to get the on-again, off-again compromise civil rights bill through the House Judiciary Committee, summed up his feelings with this story:

"Some time ago, I saw two men straining over a heavy crate and a hand truck. It looked as though they needed help, so I took off my coat and pitched in.

"After struggling for about 15 minutes without any luck, we took a break. 'Fellows,' I said, 'I just don't think we're ever going to get this crate onto the truck.'

"'Get it on?' they cried. 'We're trying to get it off!'

"That illustrates how I've felt the last three weeks."

As Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., delivered a luncheon speech before the National Women's Press Club, someone accidentally banged into the keyboard of a piano in the wings. Quick on the draw, the senator fired this shot:

William Howard Taft. 27th president of the United States, was the first in his family to graduate from Yale and enter politics. A number of his descendants have followed in his footsteps, including his son, the late Ohio senator, Robert A Taft, and his grandson, Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

Taft also started the family tradition of vacationing at the Murray Bay Golf Club in Canada's Quebec Province. The Tafts still hold to the tradition as this story about the president's great-grandson, William Howard Taft IV, illustrates:

Bill was playing the customary excellent Taft round of golf when a stranger approached to ask how long the boy had been playing.

"Well, sir," Bill answered, "I've played here all my life. And my father has been playing here all his life. Before that, my grandfather played all his life. And my great-grandfather was president—of the Murray Bay Golf Club."

Speaking at a dinner commemorating the centennial of free city mail delivery, Postmaster General John Gronouski pointed out that letter carriers always seem to know what is happening before anyone else.

"The scheduling of this dinner is a case in point," Gronouski noted. "The date was set months before I even knew I was going to be postmaster general.

"But the letter carriers must have known. Why else would they have set this great celebration on my birthday?"

Frank P. Greene, 83, of 619 S. Eighth St., has received a 50-year pin from the Brotherhood of Locomotive engineers, in recognition of many years membership in the organization. He has been employed with the Soo Line 43 years and previous to that by the C&NW.

Mrs. Joseph J. Poffenberger of Escanaba has been elected president of the Escanaba Deanery of the Marquette Diocesan Council of Catholic Women.

A two-way radio system between cars and the Manistique city police station is being installed this week.

Twenty Years Ago

Mrs. Ruby Nicholson has been installed worthy matron of Ida Chapter, O. E. S., at Manistique.

Need for post war planning is a crying need, says George E. Bishop, secretary of the U. P. Development Bureau. Bishop states that 52,000 people have left this part of the state, some to enter armed services and others to places where employment is more readily available. Many of these will return to Upper Michigan after the war, says the secretary and inducements must be provided to keep them here.

A Parent-Teacher Association has been organized at the Ford River Mill school. Mrs. Catherine Rehnquist is the new organization's president.

Lyman L. Frimodig, former member of the Escanaba high school faculty, and now assistant athletic director at Michigan State College, has been elected mayor of East Lansing.

Lawrence Van Horn, of Gladstone, will be heard in a song recital at the Gladstone Methodist Episcopal church. Miss Viola Foster will be his accompanist.

Felix Cornell, employed at the round house at Gladstone, was badly scalded when he fell into a pit. He was holding a hose connected with live steam and received full contact of the steam before he could extricate himself. His condition is regarded as very serious.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the many friends and relatives who by acts of kindness and sympathy aided and comforted us in the death of our beloved husband, son and brother. Especially do we thank Rev. Fr. Shiroda, the St. Thomas choir, members of the National Guard, all those who sent spiritual bouquets and floral offerings, and all others who aided us at this time. These kind acts will never be forgotten.

PERVERSION FOR PROFIT

Sunday evening, Nov. 3, a movie was shown at Junior High Auditorium depicting the demoralizing effects of filthy magazines and books, especially upon young people. During September and October members of Citizens for Decent Literature, who sponsored this movie, had appeared before the various PTAs and a few church groups calling attention to the prevalence of smut on newsstands and its availability to children and teen agers.

The sponsoring organization announced the date of the movie (no admission charge) and urged parents and other interested people to attend the showing and learn something about the multi-million dollar business of printing pornography for profit.

At the showing of the film at Junior High only about 80 persons were present, including various members of the sponsoring group. Where were all the others who should have been concerned about the filth that is ready and waiting for young people to devour?

Perhaps the general public doesn't believe what they are being told about the type of printed filth available on newsstands. The next time you stop in to buy a Saturday Evening Post, Readers' Digest, etc., take time to have a good look at the rot that is conspicuously displayed at some news stands—the lurid pictures, sex exploitation, homosexuality, horror stories of sadism and so on.

Quite a few of our better stores are policing this type of magazines and books they receive from their distributor and rejecting the undesirable ones. But not enough of them are doing it yet. The watchful cooperation of all good citizens is needed in order to clean up news stands where this type of printed matter is being sold either through indifference or a strong urge for profit.

An outstanding chief of police of Chicago has stated that in almost every crime of perversion in the area it has been found that the criminal was an avid reader of pornographic magazines and books. Are we going to stand idly by and have the minds and spirits of our children demoralized for profit.

Boom Days Back In Silver Mines

DENVER (AP) — A silver boom — possibly one of the biggest ever — is under way in the Colorado Rockies.

Long-closed mines are being reopened all along the mineral belt — the Continental Divide that runs from north to southwest along the state's jagged mountain peaks like the crooked spine of a shimmying dragon.

Not since the boom years of the free silver era around the turn of the century has so much interest been shown in silver in the state, says G. A. (Bud) Franz, Colorado's deputy mining commissioner.

So far this year 52 mines have been reopened, although not all are expected to be fully operational for at least six months. Still, that's nearly equal to the total of all silver mines operating in the state last year.

None of these mines, however, is an exclusively silver operation. Most of them in addition to silver, mine gold, zinc, lead and copper.

But Franz says that the mines which are being reopened will be operated mostly for their silver content.

Why the biom?

Silver is now selling near its all-time high — $1.30 an ounce.

Silver production in Colorado last year was about $2.1 million, nowhere near the all-time record of $50.3 million in 1909. Franz predicts this year's modest increase will make it about $2.5 million. Next year, providing all the reopened mines are operating, he predicts silver production in the state could reach $10 million.

But if you're thinking of heading for the hills with a mule and a pick, your chances for staking a new claim aren't very good.

"Most of the veins have been uncovered. New ones can be located only by exploration of a highly technical nature," Franz says. His advice is to hire a good mining engineer and let him go out and look.

Names of these long-dead mines that are being reborn ring with a peculiarly Old West sound: Cascade Tunnel, Capital Prize, Black Eagle on Clear Creek, Keystone at Crested Butte, Bull Domingo, California in Dolores County, Camp Bird and, naturally, Last Chance.

Some have proven value. Camp Bird, dormant only about four months, was sold earlier this month for a reported $1 million. More than $50 million in gold, silver, lead and zinc has been taken from the mine.

Others, especially some of the smaller newly reopened mines — are part-time operations, with owners going there on weekends to search for silver veins.

How much silver is actually left in the Rockies?

Franz says, "Most oldtimers agree there's as much left in there as there's been taken out." He adds, "It might even be three or four times as much."

Colleges Face Jam By 1965

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Why college presidents get grey:

There will be 40 per cent more high school graduates in 1965 than there were in 1963.

A larger percentage of those graduates will go on to college.

Ninety percent of the American public believes all boys should go to college, 77 per cent believes all girls should.

National defense and space science threaten to dominate the campus scene, at the expense of the humanities and arts.

These facts, figures and opinions are being discussed at the annual meeting of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges. The 97 institutions represented enroll 27 per cent of all the nation's college and university students.

William C. Eckermen of the University of Michigan told the meeting Sunday night a national survey indicates 96 per cent of the public believes a college education is more important now than it was 30 years ago.

But, he said, 72 per cent believe the most important thing about such an education is "training for a good job." The next most often quoted reasons for going to college were "social acceptance" and "getting to know the right people."

The survey, by Michigan's Survey Research Center is still under way. Final tabulations will be reported next summer.

Even those who approve of college education in general had some criticisms, Eckerman said.

The criticisms most often heard are that college education may create snobs, make youngsters think they are getting something for nothing and may tend to make them adopt radical ideas or break down their standards of morality.

Students Will Loft Satellite

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—In this day of billion dollar space budgets, two junior college students with begged and borrowed rockets and instruments say they are on the verge of becoming the first private individuals to launch an earth satellite.

They had a dress rehearsal of their balloon-lifted scheme in the Nevada desert Sunday and the two backyard scientists reported everyting A-OK.

Their 4-stage, 31-inch solid fuel rocket roared off a 35-foot helium balloon at 90,000 feet and sent a tiny nose cone up to about 70 miles altitude.

"It flew for 4½ minutes—we know that for sure," Dave Guidici, 21, an engineering student at Oakland City College told The Associated Press.

"Everything went perfectly," he added. "The transmitter aboard the cone worked fine. We tracked for 10 seconds after blastoff. We lost it, but picked it up again as it re-entered. Through physics we know exactly its flight curve, even though it burned up. We could even hear it re-enter the atmosphere."

"You can say," Guidici declared, "We did yesterday in miniature what we're going to do in six months when we launch our satellite. The only difference will be everything will be bigger and we'll launch at the horizon and not straight up."

Dave's partner in this East San Francisco Bay area venture into do-it-yourself rocketry is Kelly MacDonald, a student at Contra Costa Junior College who decided recently—for some strange reason—to drop engineering in favor of pre-medicine. Kelly is 20 and both boys live in El Cerrito, next door to Berkeley.

"To be fair," Kelly said, "we've had great support from NASA, from the University of California and from the Navy.

Senators Like Michigan Fish

WASHINGTON (AP) — At a Senate meal of Michigan whitefish caught in Lake Superior, and one guest said he had come to strike a blow for the fishing industry "but stayed to enjoy some extremely fine eating."

Other senators were appreciative, too, of the "Michigan fish fry" staged by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich.

Hart's dinner of fresh whitefish caught off Whitefish Point, Mich., was to make it clear that a recent Food and Drug Administration order concerning botulism applied only to smoked Great Lakes fish.

The FDA, acting after seven persons died from botulism, recommended all smoked fish products from the Great Lakes region be destroyed. The deaths had been attributed to the eating of smoked fish from the area.

The FDA, however, emphasized its caution to housewives does not apply to smoked fish from other areas or to fresh, frozen, pickled or canned fish.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., after sampling a fillet of whitefish browned in lemon butter, said: "Terrific. Just as good as I remembered it."

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., said he came to strike a blow for the fishing industry, "but stayed to enjoy some extremely fine eating."

Water Criticized At Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — An Ohio Department of Health letter Monday chided Grand Rapids for its poor water plant operation and resulting poor water quality.

It brought matters to a quick boil since this western Michigan community prides itself on its municipal water system.

"I was getting mad just reading it," said City Clerk R. Stanton Kilpatrick. Then he discovered it was meant for Grand Rapids, Ohio.

The Michigan Grand Rapids, with some 201,000 residents, is recognized as the design and style leader of the furniture world. Grand Rapids, Ohio, is a village of 670 persons near Bowling Green.

Chasing Balloon Costs $10 A Car

OLATHE, Kan. (AP)—A hot-air balloon made a 45-minute flight over Johnson County Sunday and landed on Jack W. Meyers' sod farm.

Persons in about 10 cars followed the slow-moving balloon. They opened a gate and drove over Meyers' bluegrass sod to the landing site.

Meyers, irate at the damage to his crop of sod, locked the gate and demanded $10 each from the drivers before he would let them out of the field. They paid.

Detroit Mayor Seeks Tax Aid

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Jerome Cavanagh of Detroit vows he will fight for a city share in a state surplus which he says could reach $130 million next year if Gov. George Romney's tax program is adopted.

The mayor said that his estimate was based on personal study of the program and in talks with University of Michigan economist Harvey A. Brazer.

Cavanagh, who opposes parts of Romney's tax reform plan, took issue with the governor's prediction that there would be a $25 million surplus in the state treasury by the end of the current fiscal year next July 1.

"This is what they admit," he said. "But others place the figure as high as $50 million."

Romney's program provides for a state income tax that would take effect Jan. 1. But under the proposal the state sales tax on food and drugs would not be cut off until June 30.

Cavanagh says this would give Michigan a non-recurring bonanza for six months of up to $70 million.

The mayor also says Romney's advisors are $10 to $15 million low on income tax revenue projections, because they were based on 1960 federal income tax returns.

"We know that 1960 was a flat year economically," Cavanagh said.

Education Week Has Light Side

WASHINGTON — Ask any teacher. Her class can produce more humor in one day than a stable of Hollywood gagwriters — and most of it is entirely spontaneous.

When you visit school during this American Education Week the teacher may relay some of the amusing things she hears from the children. Sometimes the humor crops up in word definitions:

Veterinarians are animals that were in the war.

Three communicable diseases are mumps, typhoid and TV.

Rats carry blue bonnet plague.

A hobby is something a person enjoys doing that is none of his business.

'Hasn't' and 'Doesn't' are contraptions.

A contradiction is something an inventor makes and people can't figure out.

That Red Cross course helps you to save drowned people with mouth-to-mouth recitation.

A teacher is daily exposed also to the terrifying logic of the very young — which can also have its unconscious humor. For example:

"I don't like my new teacher," said the new first grader. "When I went in she said, 'Sit here for the present,' — and she never brought one!"

The little girl complained to the teacher that she had hurt her foot during recess. "Which foot, dear?" inquired the teacher sympathetically. "I don't remember now," said the little girl, "But it was one of these two."

The little girl was telling her teacher that the lady next door had died the day before and she asked, "Teacher, do people who die go to heaven?" "Good people do," replied the teacher. "Well," said the little girl, "They must go at night. I've watched and watched and I never saw one go."

Jeff could not recognize the word 'scream' in his reading, despite many clues. The teacher told him to cover the 's' to see what remained. Still no response. The teacher asked, "Well, what does your mother put in her coffee?" "Toast," was the reply.

The little girl making her first visit to the school nurses' office saw a human skeleton used in health classes and commented: "I know why he's sick — he doesn't have any skin on."

The first graders were learning scientific facts about sound. In introducing the role of the senses, the teacher asked them why smell was important. "Because," chirped a voice, "it helps me like my breakfast before I come downstairs."

A Honolulu teacher was trying to give her kindergarten some idea of the great size of the mainland. Said she: "You could drive five days in the United States in one direction without stopping. What would happen if you did that here?" "I know," said one lad, "You'd run out of gas!"

The teacher, trying to get across concepts of arithmetic, said "If there are seven flies on your desk and you kill one, how many will remain?" and got this reply from a youngster: "One — the dead one."

Humor is spontanious, unconscious, and sometimes embrassing, such as the letter the sixth grader wrote to a noted entomologist who had lectured to the class on the dangers of rat infestation. Wrote the student: "Thanks so much for your talk. We didn't even know what a rat looked like until you came to our class."

But then there are the comments from the students that warm the cockles of the teacher's heart and make her glad all over again that she chose teaching.

Like this one from the second grader, first thing one November morning: "In my prayers last night, I asked God to keep you well, 'cause I don't want no substitutes!"

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Jerome Cavanagh of Detroit vows he will fight for a city share in a state surplus which he says could reach $130 million next year if Gov. George Romney's tax program is adopted.

The mayor said that his estimate was based on personal study of the program and in talks with University of Michigan economist Harvey A. Brazer.

Cavanagh, who opposes parts of Romney's tax reform plan, took issue with the governor's prediction that there would be a $25 million surplus in the state treasury by the end of the current fiscal year next July 1.

"This is what they admit," he said. "But others place the figure as high as $50 million."

Romney's program provides for a state income tax that would take effect Jan. 1. But under the proposal the state sales tax on food and drugs would not be cut off until June 30.

Cavanagh says this would give Michigan a non-recurring bonanza for six months of up to $70 million.

The mayor also says Romney's advisors are $10 to $15 million low on income tax revenue projections, because they were based on 1960 federal income tax returns.

"We know that 1960 was a flat year economically," Cavanagh said.

Education Week Has Light Side

WASHINGTON — Ask any teacher. Her class can produce more humor in one day than a stable of Hollywood gagwriters — and most of it is entirely spontaneous.

When you visit school during this American Education Week the teacher may relay some of the amusing things she hears from the children. Sometimes the humor crops up in word definitions:

Veterinarians are animals that were in the war.

Three communicable diseases are mumps, typhoid and TV.

Rats carry blue bonnet plague.

A hobby is something a person enjoys doing that is none of his business.

'Hasn't' and 'Doesn't' are contraptions.

A contradiction is something an inventor makes and people can't figure out.

That Red Cross course helps you to save drowned people with mouth-to-mouth recitation.

A teacher is daily exposed also to the terrifying logic of the very young — which can also have its unconscious humor. For example:

"I don't like my new teacher," said the new first grader. "When I went in she said, 'Sit here for the present,' — and she never brought one!"

The little girl complained to the teacher that she had hurt her foot during recess. "Which foot, dear?" inquired the teacher sympathetically. "I don't remember now," said the little girl, "But it was one of these two."

The little girl was telling her teacher that the lady next door had died the day before and she asked, "Teacher, do people who die go to heaven?" "Good people do," replied the teacher. "Well," said the little girl, "They must go at night. I've watched and watched and I never saw one go."

Jeff could not recognize the word 'scream' in his reading, despite many clues. The teacher told him to cover the 's' to see what remained. Still no response. The teacher asked, "Well, what does your mother put in her coffee?" "Toast," was the reply.

The little girl making her first visit to the school nurses' office saw a human skeleton used in health classes and commented: "I know why he's sick — he doesn't have any skin on."

The first graders were learning scientific facts about sound. In introducing the role of the senses, the teacher asked them why smell was important. "Because," chirped a voice, "it helps me like my breakfast before I come downstairs."

A Honolulu teacher was trying to give her kindergarten some idea of the great size of the mainland. Said she: "You could drive five days in the United States in one direction without stopping. What would happen if you did that here?" "I know," said one lad, "You'd run out of gas!"

The teacher, trying to get across concepts of arithmetic, said "If there are seven flies on your desk and you kill one, how many will remain?" and got this reply from a youngster: "One — the dead one."

Humor is spontanious, unconscious, and sometimes embrassing, such as the letter the sixth grader wrote to a noted entomologist who had lectured to the class on the dangers of rat infestation. Wrote the student: "Thanks so much for your talk. We didn't even know what a rat looked like until you came to our class."

But then there are the comments from the students that warm the cockles of the teacher's heart and make her glad all over again that she chose teaching.

Like this one from the second grader, first thing one November morning: "In my prayers last night, I asked God to keep you well, 'cause I don't want no substitutes!"

Ann Landers

Mad At Himself?

Dear Ann Landers: We just returned home from visiting relatives. There were other guests present and we were all seated in the living room. My husband saw a bowl of fruit on the coffee table and reached over to help himself. Before I could stop him he took a great big bite and broke his tooth on a wax apple.

Everyone was convulsed with laughter, and I must say the look of astonishment on my husband's face was worth the price of a ticket. Now he is mad at his sister-in-law and says she had no business putting out artificial fruit. He swears she did it as a gag.

I don't think he has a legitimate beef. If he hadn't had so many martinis he would have known the apple was wax the moment he picked it up. What do you think about this?—GARDEN OF EDAN

Dear Edan: The nostess should not be expected to hang a sign on artificial fruit saying, "This is fake. Do not eat."

I suspect your conclusions about the martinis are correct. If your husband wants to be mad, let him be mad at himself.

Dear Ann Landers: In May our 16-year-old daughter eloped with a high school senior. They were gone only the night and nobody knows about the elopement but us and the boy's parents. We six talked it over the next day when they returned and we succeeded in getting the children to see that it would be best to have the marriage annulled. Our attorneys worked it out with our clergyman and everything was settled.

Two weeks ago our daughter told us she is pregnant. The boy has made it clear he does not want to get married. He is a freshman in college now and is enjoying what he calls "his freedom." He told her to put the baby up for adoption if she wants to, and has made it clear she can't count on him for a thing.

My husband started looking for his deer rifle when he heard the boy's remarks. I got him to calm down and pleaded with him to be rational and not add to our daughter's problems.

Please tell us what are the boy's responsibilities? Can we force a marriage? We need help. — DISTRAUGHT PARENTS

Dear Distraught: You cannot force a marriage. And even if you could, why on earth would you want to? That irresponsible little punk would make a demon of a husband, and a mighty poor father.

You need a lawyer. He will explain the boy's obligations—and the sooner the better.

Dear Ann Landers: I am in a tough spot and don't know what to do. During lunch period a certain bunch of girls smoke in the school bathroom. A lot of kids know who these girls are because they have been seen many times.

Friday in English class I went up to the teacher to ask about a special assignment. She said, "Have you been smoking?" I answered "No." Then she said, "Don't lie to me. I can smell smoke on your clothing." When I told her once again that I don't smoke she became angry and said, "Perhaps you will be able to persuade the principal when he calls you into his office to discuss this."

So far I haven't heard from the principal, but what if I do get called in? Shall I tell him what I know? I need some advice fast.—NOT GUILTY

Dear Not Guilty: Tell the principal the truth: that you do not smoke but have smelled smoke on your clothing because sometimes you are in the presence of students who do use cigarets. But under no circumstances should you name names.

Fumes Are Fatal To Benton Harbor Couple In Car

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — Harry Allen Walters, 21, of St. Joseph, and Mrs. Wilma Mills, 34, of Benton Harbor, were found dead from carbon monoxide gas Sunday in his parked car at the rear of a building in nearby Benton Township.

Dr. Gerald Beal, a deputy medical examiner, attributed the deaths to carbon monoxide and said the gas apparently seeped into the parked car from a faulty exhaust system on Walters' 10-year-old car.

The couple apparently left the motor running after parking.

AN APRIL 4 WEDDING is being planned by Margaret Mary (Peggy) Munson and Richard Raymond Bryson. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Mildred Munson of Powers and Lester C. Munson of Deerfield, Wis. She attended Mount Mary College in Milwaukee and Northern Michigan University and is presently on the editorial staff of the Escanaba Daily Press and with the staff of WLST. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bryson, 313 N. 11th St., is with Escanaba Division of Mead Corporation.

Build Diets Around The Foods You Like

EAST LANSING — If you are reducing, your diet should be built around foods that are familiar to you and foods that you like.

This is one of the four requirements of a sound reducing diet listed by Anita Dean, foods and nutrition specialist with the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

Mrs. Dean says you must ask yourself, "Would I like to stay on this diet the rest of my life?"

"The more nearly the meals resemble those you are accustomed to and like, the longer you will be willing to continue on the diet," she explains.

She emphasized the importance of variety in low-calorie diets.

Moderation

"You can eat almost everything in moderation," she says. "The very monotony of extreme unnatural diets is responsible for their short lives."

The second characteristic of the sound reducing diet is that meals are satisfying.

"Successful reducing diets must allay hunger," the specialist says. "Otherwise, the dieter is constantly unhappy and periodically 'breaks' the diet." One way to make a low-calorie diet satisfying, she suggests, is to divide the food fairly evenly among the meals of the day. This might even mean saving a portion of food for times of the day when you especially crave to eat — such as at bedtime.

A sound diet is also nutritionally adequate and can mean improved health and a greater sense of well being for the overweight person, Mrs. Dean says.

"Reducing diets that are too low in calories and are inadequate in nutrient content are a hazard to health," she continues.

Calorie Count

The fourth characteristic of the sound reducing diet is that the calorie count must be low enough to cause weight loss.

According to Mrs. Dean, reducing diets are based upon the principle that when foods supply less energy than the body needs, the body must use its own stored fats as fuel. She points out that this low-calorie feature is the most difficult to put into practice and the one "most exacting in terms of successful weight loss."

She cautions against strenuous exercise. It may only create a greater appetite. Moderate exercise such as walking or housework, however, may aid weight loss.

Workshops In Preparation For Holiday Sale

The first of a series of Delta County Democratic Women's Club Holiday Workshops to be held in various areas of Escanaba and Delta County was at the home of Ann Villeneuve. Various items of handicraft were demonstrated and prepared for the handicraft and baked goods sale to be held at Goodman's Drug Store Friday, Dec. 6.

Mrs. Loretta Pepin demonstrated liquid embroidery and supervised and assisted those present in the use of the process. Mrs. Villeneuve displayed and demonstrated other handicrafted gift and decorative items.

The second workshop will be held this evening at 8 at the home of Mrs. William E. Miron who is general chairman for the sale. Among items to be demonstrated and displayed will be elf, snowmen and Santa Claus puppets and Barbie Doll clothes Mrs. Villeneuve will be workshop leader. Mrs. Verna Murray, club president, will outline briefly club activities for the coming months. All those attending are requested to have fine sewing needles and sewing scissors. Materials will be furnished.

Additional Holiday Workshops are planned for other areas and will be announced when plans are completed. Future demonstrations will include holiday candle making, napkin rings, bridge tallies and decorated metal containers for party mix and Christmas cookies as items to be prepared for the sale.

Inspection Of VFW Auxiliary Monday Night

Annual inspection of the V.F.W. Ladies Auxiliary, conducted by Ruth Johnson of Ishpeming, past district president, and her guest, Gertrude Pine, Ishpeming Auxiliary president, featured Monday night's meeting held at the V.F.W. club rooms.

Application for membership was received from Frances Williams, Faye Nelson, Mary O'Connell. Initiated into the Auxiliary were Inga Anderson and Ruth Collins.

Lucille Cholger, hospital chairman, urged all members to donate comfort items to help fill the box for the Iron Mountain V.A. hospital. Joyce Johnson, Americanism chairman, read "In Flanders Fields" in observance of Veterans Day. Julianne McMahon asked all members to write Senator Hart and Senator McNamara, urging suport on Senator Dirksen's resolution 176. A generous donation was sent to the VFW National Home for Christmas seals. Bernice Johnson received the attendance award.

Plans were made for the children's Christmas party Dec. 15, and for a holiday party for members after the next meeting.

Margaret Doucette and her committee were in charge of the social hour with the post.

W.S.C.S. Will Entertain New Church Members

New members of the First Methodist Church will be guests of the Woman's Society of Christian Service to a family night supper Thursday, Nov. 14, at 6 p. m. in Fellowship Hall.

On the program will be a series of songs, introductions by Rev. J. Bruce Brown, welcome by the chairman of the board, P. A. Kennedy and a film of the Centennial Parade.

Mrs. Vernon Whitney will be in charge of arrangements with Mrs. Donald Ness as program chairman. Members are asked to provide a dish to pass and their own table service.

Social--Club

The Luther League of Christ the King Lutheran Church will meet for an ice cream social, making the ice cream in a hand freezer, at the church Wednesday at 7 p.m. A small offering will be taken.

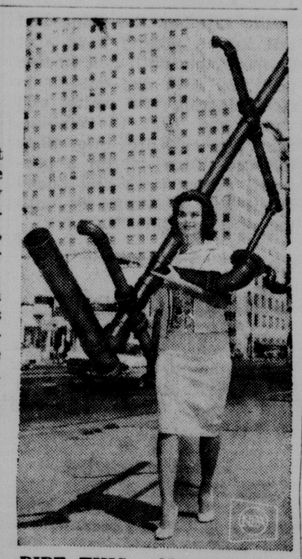

Past Matrons of R. C. Hatheway Chapter 49, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet Thursday, Nov. 14, at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Briton W. Hall.

Births

MARTINEZ — A daughter, Jean Marie, was born Nov. 11 at Presbyterian Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Izar Martinez of Albuquerque, N. M. The infant, third child in the family, weighed 7 pounds and 12 ounces. Mrs. Martinez is the former Carol Leiper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Leiper, 521 S. 7th St.

SLAPP—A daughter, Ann Allison, is the fourth child of Mr. and Mrs. D. Slapp, 613 S. 10th St. The infant, born Nov. 11 at 5:53 p. m. at St. Francis Hospital, weighed 7 pounds and 3 ounces. Mrs. Slapp is the former Sharon Barnhart.

GUINDON—Mr. and Mrs. Marcel R. Guindon, 1110 3rd Ave. S., are the parents of a son, Joseph Ronald, fifth child in the family, born today, Nov. 12, at 3:23 a. m. at St. Francis Hospital. The infant's weight was 6 pounds and 15 ounces. The mother is the former Gwynlyn Laviolette.

PIPE THIS — No muscle woman, she. Dianne Musselman finds it no chore at all to tote this plumber's nightmare in Louisville, Ky. The plastic unit weighs 36 pounds, against about 250 pounds for one of conventional material. Chemetron engineers concocted the publicly stunt.

School Planned Underground To Avoid Jet Noise

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)— Suburban Lake Worth may build an underground junior high school in order to avoid the noise of jet bombers.

The school board Monday night decided to submit a $950,000 bond issue to the voters Nov. 26 to build the subterranean schoolhouse, which would contain 21 air-conditioned classrooms and a cafeteria.

School board members said the 1,710 students lose up to 10 per cent of instructional time because of the noise from the jets landing and taking off at Carswell Air Force Base about 1½ miles away.

Build Diets Around The Foods You Like

EAST LANSING — If you are reducing, your diet should be built around foods that are familiar to you and foods that you like.

This is one of the four requirements of a sound reducing diet listed by Anita Dean, foods and nutrition specialist with the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

Mrs. Dean says you must ask yourself, "Would I like to stay on this diet the rest of my life?"

"The more nearly the meals resemble those you are accustomed to and like, the longer you will be willing to continue on the diet," she explains.

She emphasized the importance of variety in low-calorie diets.

Moderation

"You can eat almost everything in moderation," she says. "The very monotony of extreme unnatural diets is responsible for their short lives."

The second characteristic of the sound reducing diet is that meals are satisfying.

"Successful reducing diets must allay hunger," the specialist says. "Otherwise, the dieter is constantly unhappy and periodically 'breaks' the diet." One way to make a low-calorie diet satisfying, she suggests, is to divide the food fairly evenly among the meals of the day. This might even mean saving a portion of food for times of the day when you especially crave to eat — such as at bedtime.

A sound diet is also nutritionally adequate and can mean improved health and a greater sense of well being for the overweight person, Mrs. Dean says.

"Reducing diets that are too low in calories and are inadequate in nutrient content are a hazard to health," she continues.

Calorie Count

The fourth characteristic of the sound reducing diet is that the calorie count must be low enough to cause weight loss.

According to Mrs. Dean, reducing diets are based upon the principle that when foods supply less energy than the body needs, the body must use its own stored fats as fuel. She points out that this low-calorie feature is the most difficult to put into practice and the one "most exacting in terms of successful weight loss."

She cautions against strenuous exercise. It may only create a greater appetite. Moderate exercise such as walking or housework, however, may aid weight loss.

Workshops In Preparation For Holiday Sale

The first of a series of Delta County Democratic Women's Club Holiday Workshops to be held in various areas of Escanaba and Delta County was at the home of Ann Villeneuve. Various items of handicraft were demonstrated and prepared for the handicraft and baked goods sale to be held at Goodman's Drug Store Friday, Dec. 6.

Mrs. Loretta Pepin demonstrated liquid embroidery and supervised and assisted those present in the use of the process. Mrs. Villeneuve displayed and demonstrated other handicrafted gift and decorative items.

The second workshop will be held this evening at 8 at the home of Mrs. William E. Miron who is general chairman for the sale. Among items to be demonstrated and displayed will be elf, snowmen and Santa Claus puppets and Barbie Doll clothes Mrs. Villeneuve will be workshop leader. Mrs. Verna Murray, club president, will outline briefly club activities for the coming months. All those attending are requested to have fine sewing needles and sewing scissors. Materials will be furnished.

Additional Holiday Workshops are planned for other areas and will be announced when plans are completed. Future demonstrations will include holiday candle making, napkin rings, bridge tallies and decorated metal containers for party mix and Christmas cookies as items to be prepared for the sale.

Inspection Of VFW Auxiliary Monday Night

Annual inspection of the V.F.W. Ladies Auxiliary, conducted by Ruth Johnson of Ishpeming, past district president, and her guest, Gertrude Pine, Ishpeming Auxiliary president, featured Monday night's meeting held at the V.F.W. club rooms.

Application for membership was received from Frances Williams, Faye Nelson, Mary O'Connell. Initiated into the Auxiliary were Inga Anderson and Ruth Collins.

Lucille Cholger, hospital chairman, urged all members to donate comfort items to help fill the box for the Iron Mountain V.A. hospital. Joyce Johnson, Americanism chairman, read "In Flanders Fields" in observance of Veterans Day. Julianne McMahon asked all members to write Senator Hart and Senator McNamara, urging suport on Senator Dirksen's resolution 176. A generous donation was sent to the VFW National Home for Christmas seals. Bernice Johnson received the attendance award.

Plans were made for the children's Christmas party Dec. 15, and for a holiday party for members after the next meeting.

Margaret Doucette and her committee were in charge of the social hour with the post.

Puerto Rico Fried Pasties

FRIED PIES — If you go for these crisp golden pastries, you'll enjoy serving savory meat-filled turnovers from Puerto Rico.

By CELCILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Visitors to Puerto Rico tell us enthusiastic tales of the savory fried pastries — small pies or turnovers — offered all over that Island.

And one traveling cook brought back a recipe for these enticing mouthfuls.

Tried in our kitchen, we found this rule produced a crisp but substantial pastry and a meat filling with interesting flavor.

These pastries are small: three-inch rounds of the dough are folded in half, edges are crimped to seal, and then the turnovers are made golden and crispy in hot deep fat. They're just the right size for party snacks, convenient to eat out of hand.

Make these pastelillos ahead, if you like, and store them in the freezer to fry just before serving. We tried a batch this way, storing them for a couple of weeks, and found this method worked well.

This recipe produced dozens of pastries for a big party. If there are any left over, reheat them in the oven to serve with a soup or salad for lunch or supper.

A last word. If you're generous with the "rounded teaspoon" of filling the recipe directions specify for each pastry, you may have a little dough left over; if so, cover it tightly and refrigerate. Then when a pre-schooler is in the kitchen, give it to him to "cook" with. The dough is non-to sticky and stretchy. A three-year-old visitor to our kitchen had an enchanting time pulling and shaping it!

Puerto Rican Meat Pastries

1 pound ground chuck beef
½ cup ground salt pork
½ cup ground ham
1 cup chopped fresh tomatoes
⅓ cup chopped green olives
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
¼ teospoon instant minced garlic
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ teaspoon oregano leaves
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1/16 teaspoon cayenne
1 tablespoon capers
2 hard-cooked large eggs, chopped
Special pastry

In a 1½-quart saucepan, cook the beef, salt pork and ham. Stirring often. Add the tomatoes, olives, onion, garlic, salt, oregano, black pepper, cayenne and capers and cook 10 minutes. Remove from heat; add chopped eggs; mix well; cool. Roll out one-quarter of the pastry at a time so it is very thin. Using a 3-inch cookie cutter, cut into rounds. Place a rounded teaspoon of the cold meat filling on each. Fold the dough over to form a half circle. Crimp edges with a fork; prick the top. Fry in hot deep fat (365 to 375 degrees) until golden. Drain on paper toweling or brown paper. Serve hot. Makes 7 dozen.

Special Pastry

4 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup shortening
1 large egg
1 cup water

Sift together the flour and salt into a mixing bowl. Cut in shortening until it is in fine particles. Beat egg enough to combine yolk and white; add water and beat to combine. Stir egg mixture into flour mixture. Turn out on a prepared pastry cloth and knead about half a minute or until the dough is smooth.

Puerto Rico Fried Pasties

FRIED PIES — If you go for these crisp golden pastries, you'll enjoy serving savory meat-filled turnovers from Puerto Rico.

By CELCILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Visitors to Puerto Rico tell us enthusiastic tales of the savory fried pastries — small pies or turnovers — offered all over that Island.

And one traveling cook brought back a recipe for these enticing mouthfuls.

Tried in our kitchen, we found this rule produced a crisp but substantial pastry and a meat filling with interesting flavor.

These pastries are small: three-inch rounds of the dough are folded in half, edges are crimped to seal, and then the turnovers are made golden and crispy in hot deep fat. They're just the right size for party snacks, convenient to eat out of hand.

Make these pastelillos ahead, if you like, and store them in the freezer to fry just before serving. We tried a batch this way, storing them for a couple of weeks, and found this method worked well.

This recipe produced dozens of pastries for a big party. If there are any left over, reheat them in the oven to serve with a soup or salad for lunch or supper.

A last word. If you're generous with the "rounded teaspoon" of filling the recipe directions specify for each pastry, you may have a little dough left over; if so, cover it tightly and refrigerate. Then when a pre-schooler is in the kitchen, give it to him to "cook" with. The dough is non-to sticky and stretchy. A three-year-old visitor to our kitchen had an enchanting time pulling and shaping it!

Puerto Rican Meat Pastries

1 pound ground chuck beef
½ cup ground salt pork
½ cup ground ham
1 cup chopped fresh tomatoes
⅓ cup chopped green olives
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
¼ teospoon instant minced garlic
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ teaspoon oregano leaves
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1/16 teaspoon cayenne
1 tablespoon capers
2 hard-cooked large eggs, chopped
Special pastry

In a 1½-quart saucepan, cook the beef, salt pork and ham. Stirring often. Add the tomatoes, olives, onion, garlic, salt, oregano, black pepper, cayenne and capers and cook 10 minutes. Remove from heat; add chopped eggs; mix well; cool. Roll out one-quarter of the pastry at a time so it is very thin. Using a 3-inch cookie cutter, cut into rounds. Place a rounded teaspoon of the cold meat filling on each. Fold the dough over to form a half circle. Crimp edges with a fork; prick the top. Fry in hot deep fat (365 to 375 degrees) until golden. Drain on paper toweling or brown paper. Serve hot. Makes 7 dozen.

Special Pastry

4 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup shortening
1 large egg
1 cup water

Sift together the flour and salt into a mixing bowl. Cut in shortening until it is in fine particles. Beat egg enough to combine yolk and white; add water and beat to combine. Stir egg mixture into flour mixture. Turn out on a prepared pastry cloth and knead about half a minute or until the dough is smooth.

Dragging A Bear Not An Easy Job

By BOB VOGES
Associated Press Outdoor Writer

LANSING (AP) — Bagging a bear and dragging him out of the woods isn't easy.

If the weather holds good, however, more than 1,000 hunters will come back with the bonus of a bruin this deer hunting season.

Trouble is, a cold snap will send the bears into hibernation.

The best advice for the hunter who really wants a bear is to try the Upper Peninsula.

There were 1,185 bears shot last year. These included 660 shot during the deer season above the straits and 290 during the regular season in the northern Lower Peninsula.

The remainder were shot in the early bear seasons with a few taken by bow and arrow hunters.

Most At Close Range

For those who hunt with the idea of only going after a buck, gun experts advise the average deer rifle can easily handle a bear.

Most bears are shot at close range. Hunters sometimes literally stumble over them, as bears often bed down in the open, in a small gully or under a brush pile.

A hunter is allowed only one bear a calendar year on his deer license.

"Once in a while, a hunter will surprise a family of bears and blaze away and kill them all," said F. W. Stuewer, Conservation Department game expert. "That is strictly illegal. But then they will usually claim self defense."

Actually, the bear usually is more freightened than the hunter. Most will run when they see a human.

Think Twice

Bears that hang around garbage dumps and picnic grounds are likely to be the most dangerous. They think they are smarter than the average bear and lose some of their fear of humans.

Stuewer advises the hunter to think twice whether he really wants the bear before shooting. An adult male will weight about 300 pounds and some big fellows go up over 400 pounds.

"A grown bear is a clumsy thing to drag out of the woods," he said.

The Conservation Department figures there are between 7,000 and 8,000 bears in Michigan but says this only is a guess.

With the human population boom, they predict, bears eventually will disappear from the Lower Peninsula—as did wolves.

The normal Lower Peninsula range for bears is about down to the dead stream swamp in Missaukee County. Occasionally they wander even farther south and one was spotted in the St. Johns area a few years ago.

Tech Auditorium Burns At Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)— A fire destroyed the old auditorium building on the Soo campus of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology Monday night. The auditorium had been under demolition in preparation for a $750,000 building project.

Workmen began razing the old building earlier Monday. Fire Chief George des Jardins said the blaze might have started from a workman's cutting torch. No one was injured.

SIDE GLANCES — by Galbraith

Bid Awarded On Fire Hose

The Gladstone City Commission awarded the low bid of $642 to Clarence Lippold of Escanaba for the purchase of fire hose, when they met in regular session Monday evening at City Hall.

Lippold was one of five bidders on the fire hose. The bid included 200 feet of two and one-half inch hose and 400 feet of one and a half-inch hose.

Other bidders included: Flood Supply Co. of Crystal Falls, $695; Municipal Purchasing Service of Ann Arbor, $669; R. E. Davison of Ontonagon, $790; and Everd Lezotte of Munising, $800.

In other actions, the Commission also awarded a bid to Wheeler Arnold Co. of Wittenberg, Wis., for the purchase of snow fencing. The firm's bid was for 1,500 feet of fencing at $14.95 per 100 feet and for 150 posts at $1.05 per post.

The Commission also approved a motion authorizing City Manager H. J. Henrikson to inspect the old Buckeye Store with the police and fire chiefs to determine the extent the building is creating a public nuisance.

Many complaints have been received from residents about the condition of the building. The inspection by the officials will determine what action can be taken about correcting the situation within limitations of the City ordinances.

Briefly Told

Lodge 103, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, will meet at the Legion Hall at 7:30 p.m. today.

Women of Trinity Episcopal Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Robert J. Yonkman, 909 Wisconsin Ave., at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Members are reminded to bring needles and thread for work on cancer dressings.

State Police of the Gladstone Post ticketed Calvin Moore of Owosso, Mich. for leaving the scene of a property damage accident. Moore was involved in a hit-run mishap early Monday morning in Rapid River when he struck a parked car.

Cave-In Is Fatal To Michigan Man

NEW CARLISLE, Ind. (AP)— A drainage ditch cave-in killed a Michigan construction worker Monday.

Albert M. Gwin, 46, of (222 Ironwood) Niles, a tile layer, died under a collapsed wall of a 7½-foot ditch. Gwin was an employe of the Bradberry Bros. Construction Co. of South Bend. The company is at work at the Haven Hubbard Home for the Elderly northeast of here.

Hunter Charged In Gun Mishap

James Sposato, 29, of Waterford, Mich. was fined $15.70 plus court costs of $4.30 when he pled guilty to a charge of careless use of firearms, upon arraignment before Justice A. J. Mortier Monday.

Sposato's charge resulted from an incident in which Stuart Salters, 33, of New Haven, was shot through both feet by a gun fired by him. The two were in the Cornell area preparing to come into town. Salters questioned whether the guns in the car were loaded or not.

Sposato said they were not and to prove it fired one of the rifle into the floorboard. However, the gun discharged a bulet which went through Salters right foot and fragmentation also entered the left foot.

Auxiliary Seats New Officers

The Ladies Auxiliary to the B. of R. T. elected and installed officers to serve for the coming year at their regular meeting at the Legion Hall Tuesday.

Mrs. Edyth Heslip will serve as president, and Mrs. Arlene Bloomquist as vice president. Other officers are: Mrs. Louis Smith, secretary; Mrs. Mary Lou LaFond, treasurer; Mrs. Dagney Louis, conductress; Mrs. Ann Sword, chaplain; Mrs. Patricia Soderman, warden; Mrs. Jane Peterson, inner guard; Mrs. Margaret Reese, outer guard; and Mrs. Sadie Kegel, pianist. Mrs. Eleanor Carriere is legislative representative and Mrs. Heslip, alternate.

Plans were made for a Christmas dinner meeting to be held at Marco's Monday, Dec. 2, at 7:30 p.m. A smorgasbord meal will be served and gifts will be exchanged. Those planning to attend are asked to call Mrs. Carriere at GA 5-7371 or Mrs. Smith, GA 8-9775, before Nov. 29.

With The Deer Hunters

Hunting out of Bear Camp at Mashek are Jerry Clark of Gladstone, and Andrew Broutin, Russ and Chuck Mills, of Detroit.

Vic Karnitz and Bud Clark of Gladstone are hunting out of Camp Poor Shot at Mashek. Others at the camp are Arne Berg, Escanaba, Bill Marlins, Dave Delpere, Whitey Burley, John Arzel and Tom Burley, all of Detroit.

Orvill Green, 1013 Delta Ave., bagged a 4 point, 107 pound buck while hunting in Alger County Sunday morning.

Freeways Offer More Traffic To Peninsula Cities

By JEAN WORTH

LANSING — The freeways in the Lower Peninsula have greatly improved business in the communities that they have bypassed, the State Highway Department reports.

An explanation of this phenomenon was asked of John Murray, information chief of the Highway Department, and he said that the business gain comes because 45 million persons now are within 12 hours drive of the Mackinac Bridge.

The implications of this potential are specially meaningful and challenging to cities like Gladstone and Escanaba, which have been by-passed by construction of super highways. The new by-pass on U.S. 2-41 and M-35 at Gladstone calls for new community techniques to attract the part of the passing traffic that would be interested in the community if it knew about its attractions, said Murray.

"Driving habits in the state are being changed a lot by the freeways. From Lansing to the Mackinac Bridge used to take a day and drivers would stop at Clare for lunch. But now on the freeway they're long past Clare at lunchtime and probably stop at Indian River or up that way, and a person from Columbus, Ohio takes their place at Clare for lunch.

"The total number of persons in the area is increasing and they get off the freeway for services. Some persons have called the freeways "tunnels" to suggest that they chute traffic through an area, but they're really sieves with many points of access and exit. From Monroe to the Sault there must be 150 points of entry and exit, so they're not tunnels.

"In the Upper Peninsula," said Murray "we have concentrated on the improvement of major sections of our primary highways. It has never been too difficult to get about in the Upper Peninsula. One of the greatest things we do for the U.P. is to keep its highways open in the winter.

"You can drive almost every day of the year without undue hazard and this has been a great factor in the development of the area's ski industry. The year around you are as accessible as the Lower Peninsula; the Upper Peninsula has its roads open as many days as the Lower Peninsula. Around Higgins Lake and Houghton Lake in the Lower Peninsula they get an awful lot of snow."

Card Of Thanks

Beauchamp

I wish to extend my heartfelt thanks for the many kindnesses and get well wishes I received from neighbors, relatives, teachers and friends while I was a hospital patient in Rochester. A special thanks for the many cards made by my first and second grade pupils at James T. Jones School. All of these helped to make my hospital stay and my recovery at home a pleasant one.

Dragging A Bear Not An Easy Job

By BOB VOGES
Associated Press Outdoor Writer

LANSING (AP) — Bagging a bear and dragging him out of the woods isn't easy.

If the weather holds good, however, more than 1,000 hunters will come back with the bonus of a bruin this deer hunting season.

Trouble is, a cold snap will send the bears into hibernation.

The best advice for the hunter who really wants a bear is to try the Upper Peninsula.

There were 1,185 bears shot last year. These included 660 shot during the deer season above the straits and 290 during the regular season in the northern Lower Peninsula.

The remainder were shot in the early bear seasons with a few taken by bow and arrow hunters.

Most At Close Range

For those who hunt with the idea of only going after a buck, gun experts advise the average deer rifle can easily handle a bear.

Most bears are shot at close range. Hunters sometimes literally stumble over them, as bears often bed down in the open, in a small gully or under a brush pile.

A hunter is allowed only one bear a calendar year on his deer license.

"Once in a while, a hunter will surprise a family of bears and blaze away and kill them all," said F. W. Stuewer, Conservation Department game expert. "That is strictly illegal. But then they will usually claim self defense."

Actually, the bear usually is more freightened than the hunter. Most will run when they see a human.

Think Twice

Bears that hang around garbage dumps and picnic grounds are likely to be the most dangerous. They think they are smarter than the average bear and lose some of their fear of humans.

Stuewer advises the hunter to think twice whether he really wants the bear before shooting. An adult male will weight about 300 pounds and some big fellows go up over 400 pounds.

"A grown bear is a clumsy thing to drag out of the woods," he said.

The Conservation Department figures there are between 7,000 and 8,000 bears in Michigan but says this only is a guess.

With the human population boom, they predict, bears eventually will disappear from the Lower Peninsula—as did wolves.

The normal Lower Peninsula range for bears is about down to the dead stream swamp in Missaukee County. Occasionally they wander even farther south and one was spotted in the St. Johns area a few years ago.

Tech Auditorium Burns At Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)— A fire destroyed the old auditorium building on the Soo campus of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology Monday night. The auditorium had been under demolition in preparation for a $750,000 building project.

Workmen began razing the old building earlier Monday. Fire Chief George des Jardins said the blaze might have started from a workman's cutting torch. No one was injured.

Bid Awarded On Fire Hose

The Gladstone City Commission awarded the low bid of $642 to Clarence Lippold of Escanaba for the purchase of fire hose, when they met in regular session Monday evening at City Hall.

Lippold was one of five bidders on the fire hose. The bid included 200 feet of two and one-half inch hose and 400 feet of one and a half-inch hose.

Other bidders included: Flood Supply Co. of Crystal Falls, $695; Municipal Purchasing Service of Ann Arbor, $669; R. E. Davison of Ontonagon, $790; and Everd Lezotte of Munising, $800.

In other actions, the Commission also awarded a bid to Wheeler Arnold Co. of Wittenberg, Wis., for the purchase of snow fencing. The firm's bid was for 1,500 feet of fencing at $14.95 per 100 feet and for 150 posts at $1.05 per post.

The Commission also approved a motion authorizing City Manager H. J. Henrikson to inspect the old Buckeye Store with the police and fire chiefs to determine the extent the building is creating a public nuisance.

Many complaints have been received from residents about the condition of the building. The inspection by the officials will determine what action can be taken about correcting the situation within limitations of the City ordinances.

Cave-In Is Fatal To Michigan Man

NEW CARLISLE, Ind. (AP)— A drainage ditch cave-in killed a Michigan construction worker Monday.

Albert M. Gwin, 46, of (222 Ironwood) Niles, a tile layer, died under a collapsed wall of a 7½-foot ditch. Gwin was an employe of the Bradberry Bros. Construction Co. of South Bend. The company is at work at the Haven Hubbard Home for the Elderly northeast of here.

Hunter Charged In Gun Mishap

James Sposato, 29, of Waterford, Mich. was fined $15.70 plus court costs of $4.30 when he pled guilty to a charge of careless use of firearms, upon arraignment before Justice A. J. Mortier Monday.

Sposato's charge resulted from an incident in which Stuart Salters, 33, of New Haven, was shot through both feet by a gun fired by him. The two were in the Cornell area preparing to come into town. Salters questioned whether the guns in the car were loaded or not.

Sposato said they were not and to prove it fired one of the rifle into the floorboard. However, the gun discharged a bulet which went through Salters right foot and fragmentation also entered the left foot.

Auxiliary Seats New Officers

The Ladies Auxiliary to the B. of R. T. elected and installed officers to serve for the coming year at their regular meeting at the Legion Hall Tuesday.

Mrs. Edyth Heslip will serve as president, and Mrs. Arlene Bloomquist as vice president. Other officers are: Mrs. Louis Smith, secretary; Mrs. Mary Lou LaFond, treasurer; Mrs. Dagney Louis, conductress; Mrs. Ann Sword, chaplain; Mrs. Patricia Soderman, warden; Mrs. Jane Peterson, inner guard; Mrs. Margaret Reese, outer guard; and Mrs. Sadie Kegel, pianist. Mrs. Eleanor Carriere is legislative representative and Mrs. Heslip, alternate.

Plans were made for a Christmas dinner meeting to be held at Marco's Monday, Dec. 2, at 7:30 p.m. A smorgasbord meal will be served and gifts will be exchanged. Those planning to attend are asked to call Mrs. Carriere at GA 5-7371 or Mrs. Smith, GA 8-9775, before Nov. 29.

Freeways Offer More Traffic To Peninsula Cities

By JEAN WORTH

LANSING — The freeways in the Lower Peninsula have greatly improved business in the communities that they have bypassed, the State Highway Department reports.

An explanation of this phenomenon was asked of John Murray, information chief of the Highway Department, and he said that the business gain comes because 45 million persons now are within 12 hours drive of the Mackinac Bridge.

The implications of this potential are specially meaningful and challenging to cities like Gladstone and Escanaba, which have been by-passed by construction of super highways. The new by-pass on U.S. 2-41 and M-35 at Gladstone calls for new community techniques to attract the part of the passing traffic that would be interested in the community if it knew about its attractions, said Murray.

"Driving habits in the state are being changed a lot by the freeways. From Lansing to the Mackinac Bridge used to take a day and drivers would stop at Clare for lunch. But now on the freeway they're long past Clare at lunchtime and probably stop at Indian River or up that way, and a person from Columbus, Ohio takes their place at Clare for lunch.

"The total number of persons in the area is increasing and they get off the freeway for services. Some persons have called the freeways "tunnels" to suggest that they chute traffic through an area, but they're really sieves with many points of access and exit. From Monroe to the Sault there must be 150 points of entry and exit, so they're not tunnels.

"In the Upper Peninsula," said Murray "we have concentrated on the improvement of major sections of our primary highways. It has never been too difficult to get about in the Upper Peninsula. One of the greatest things we do for the U.P. is to keep its highways open in the winter.

"You can drive almost every day of the year without undue hazard and this has been a great factor in the development of the area's ski industry. The year around you are as accessible as the Lower Peninsula; the Upper Peninsula has its roads open as many days as the Lower Peninsula. Around Higgins Lake and Houghton Lake in the Lower Peninsula they get an awful lot of snow."

Death Claims Mrs. Major

Mrs. Matt Rica Major, 87, of 107 4th Ave., Gladstone, died in St. Francis Hospital at 4:10 p.m. Monday. She had been a patient five days and had been in ill health for several years.

Mrs. Major was born March 10, 1876 in Finland and had been a resident for about 65 years.

She was a member of the First Lutheran Church of Gladstone and of the L.C.W.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Ollie (Esther) Nelson and Mrs. Floyd (Evelyn) Dausey, and one son, Alvin Lilquist, all of Gladstone; three step-daughters, Mrs. Albert (Nancy) Creten and Mrs. Victor (Hilda) Ogren, both of Gladstone and Mrs. Gerald (Florence) Mock of Cicero, Ill.; three step-sons, Arvid Major of Gladstone, Carl of Milwaukee and Edwin of Appleton; 28 grandchildren; 38 great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild.

The body was taken to the Kelley Funeral Home where friends may begin calling Wednesday afternoon.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m from the First Lutheran Church with Pastor Walfred Nelson officiating. Burial will be in Fernwood Cemetery.

Lansing Sexton Is 1963 Champ; Soo Finishes 6th

By The Associated Press

Hail the Champions — Lansing Sexton, Willow Run and Kalamazoo St. Augustine!

Those three today were named the No. 1 teams in their respective classses in the Associated Press, final high school football poll of 1963.

Sexton, which moved into first place in Class A only last week, also captured the Six-A League title. Coach Ross Maples' team won seven games and had one tie with East Lansing.

The Lansing school won the mythical state championship by 11 points over second-place Flint Central in the voting by the AP's statewide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Willow Run went undefeated in nine games to grab the Class B crown. Coach Duane Devlin, the only football coach Willow Run has ever had, saw his team whip five Class A opponents and record four shutouts.

Bad Axe finished as runner-up in Class B, with Hillsdale, Mount Morris and Dundee and Kingsford, which tied for fifth, following.

Kalamazoo St. Augustine closed its football history with a perfect 9-0 record to take the Class C-D title.

The Irish, coached by Dick Soisson and John Rapacz, will be replaced by the new Msgr. John R. Hackett High School next fall.

St. Joseph Catholic snapped a tie to place second among the state's smaller schools, while Saranac jumped two spots to finish in third.

Only one school was able to crash into the top 10 in the final week's poll. That was Roscommon, which placed ninth in C-D.

The final voting with points based on 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for a second, etc. through 1 points for a 10th-place vote.

Emeralds Have Eight Lettermen Back This Year

MANISTIQUE—Coach Rudie Brandstrom has eight lettermen back from last year's Emerald basketball team that fashioned a 10-8 season record.

In addition to considerable experience, the Emeralds will have plenty of height with nine players standing 6-foot or better.

Rounding out the squad are Steve Bauman, Darryl Carlson, Mike Gray, Richard Hoholik and Paul Harris.

The Emeralds, who won seven of 13 starts in the Great Lakes Conference last season, open their 1963-64 slate Friday night in a home stand against the Ishpeming Hematites.

Texas Retains Spot As No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — As the only major college team still unbeaten and untied, despite the slender margins of victory, Texas retained its spot as the nation's No. 1 football team this week.

The Longhorns were first on 48 of 53 ballots and took the top spot for the fifth straight week by a comfortable margin.

The panel of sports writers and broadcasters voting in the weekly Associated Press poll also meted out recognition as due to other winners and losers. Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma and Pitt rose in the rankings while Illinois, Auburn and Ohio State went down.

Texas, w i n n i n g its eighth straight game, had to go all out to win a squeaker from Baylor 7-0. That was the fourth in a row won by no more than a touchdown. Instead of discounting the Longhorns because of those margins, the experts gave them a whopping total of 526 points on the scoring basis of 10 points for a first place vote, nine for second, etc. That came on 48 firsts, four seconds and one vote for fifth.

Navy moved up f r o m fourth to second with 446 points, replacing Illinois, which skidded far down the list after a 14-8 loss to Michigan. The voters obviously were impressed by the ease with which the Midshipmen massacred Maryland 42-7. Mississippi, an easy 41-0 winner over Tampa, a minor opponent, remained in third. Michigan State climbed from ninth to fourth after trimming Purdue 23-0 and taking the Big Ten lead.

Behind them in the Top Ten came Oklahoma, Pitt, Alabama, Illinois, Auburn and Nebraska.

Oklahoma, a 24-14 winner over Iowa State, just nosed out Pitt for fifth in the point scoring, 284-281. Pitt's decisive 27-7 victory over Notre Dame lifted the Panthers from eighth place. Alabama, idle last Saturday, remained in seventh.

Auburn dropped from fifth to ninth after being edged by Mississippi State 13-10. Nebraska, holding its Big Eight lead with a 23-9 decision over Kansas, replaced Ohio State, a 10-7 loser to Penn State, as the ninth team.

The top ten teams with first place votes in parentheses and points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 sis:

	Pts.
1. Texas (48)	526
2. Navy (4)	446
3. Mississippi	361
4. Michigan State (1)	303
5. Oklahoma	284
6. Pittsburgh	281
7. Alabama	253
8. Illinois	133
9. Auburn	91
10. Nebraska	84

Back Connects On 13 Passes

NEW YORK (AP) — Lance Alworth, San Diego's baby-faced flanker back, tied an American Football League record Sunday by catching 13 passes against Boston, a performance that made him the leading ground gainer among the league's pass catchers.

Although Alworth's total of 46 catches is good for only sixth place in the standings and trails leading Art Powell of Oakland by six, he has gained 968 yards and scored eight touchdowns. Alworth's catches have been worth a fantastic average of 21 yards.

Clem Daniels recaptured the rushing lead when he picked up 122 yards in 31 carries for Oakland in the Raiders' 22-7 Friday night victory over Kansas City.

Tobin Rote of San Diego retained first place among the passers with Jack Kemp of Buffalo close behind. Rote has averaged 9.5 yards per-attempt and has completed 114 of 182 for 14 touchdowns.

Gino Cappelletti, Boston's place kicker, widened his impressive lead in the scoring department with a total of 87 points to 53 for George Blanda of Houston.

Indiana Junior Leading Scorer

CHICAGO (AP) — Tom Nowatzke, Indiana's 220-pound junior fullback, has taken the Big Ten all - games football scoring lead.

Clicking in every department, Nowatzke has a total of 48 points on five touchdowns, four field goals and six extra points and holds a six - point lead over fullback Roger Lopes of Michigan State who has seven touchdowns for 42 points.

Halfbacks Lou Holland of Wisconsin and Sherman Lewis of Michigan State are tied for htird with 36 points each.

Fishing For Pay Is Busy Career

CORTLAND, N.Y. (AP)—This is the kind of life Leon Chandler has led—

He went directly from college to a career of fishing for pay. He's only 38 and isn't thinking of retiring. Just what would he retire to?

He is the vice-president of a company that makes fishing lines and as such he has visited virtually every lake and stream in the United States and many throughout the world. He's just returned home from an international fair at Poznan, Poland, where he represented 30 American firms and the fishing gear they make.

Fishing in Poland, as in the United States, is the country's greatest participant s p o r t. There are these differences: In the U.S. fishing must compete with golf, bowling, tennis, motoring and TV watching for the angler's time. In Poland there are few if any distractions. Besides that, a successful Polish fisherman eats better. Meat is scarce.

The Poles, then, were more than just interested in what Chandler had to show. They were amazed. What Americans consider commonplace, such as a push button spinning reel, is regarded as extreme luxury there. And the inexpensive lures, flies and special lines Americans take for granted are either non-existent or, when available, priced beyond Polish reach.

News of the amazing American fishing tackle spread like wildfire in Poland. Visiting U.S. Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., was told by a train engineer some 500 miles from Poznan that the U.S. fishing exhibit was the best thing at the International Fair. And a group of Russian army officers, including a general, requested a special demonstration by Chandler.

He obliged.

Touring Woman Golfer Runs Her Roll To $24,533

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The women's golf tour rolled on to Gulfport, Miss., today with Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., holding the San Antonio Civitan Open Championship — her seventh tournament victory of the year.

She ran her 1963 bankroll to $24,533 Monday as she took down first money of $1,300 by capturing a sudden death playoff from the acknowledged queen of the links—Mickey Wright.

Misses Whitworth and Wright tied at 72 holes with 299 and in the playoff Miss Whitworth was par 4 on the first hole while Miss Wright hit a sand trap and took a bogey five.

End Johnny Baker of the Houston Oilers was named the best defensive end in the Southeastern Conference last year at Mississippi State.

Athletic Union Split Lingers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee has ended its last session before the 1964 Olympics with no permanent solution in sight for the split between the Amateur Athletic Union and the colleges.

Neither the AAU nor the National Collegiate Athletic Association showed any letup during the two-day biennial meeting of the hostilities that once threatened to wreck America's hopes next year in Tokyo. The meeting ended Monday.

After mediation by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, both sides agreed earlier this year to a truce in their conflict until after the 1964 Olympics.

However, this didn't stop both sides from maneuvering for more power on the Olympic Committee. They kept up a running battle throughout the two days.

Just before final adjournment, committee president Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson commented:

"I leave here with a heavy heart . . . I was sincere in my plea that we should not have bloc voting, that we should consider each issue on its merits."

The conflict began Sunday when AAU forces reversed the committee's board of directors on the question of granting a newly formed federation sanction to represent the United States on the International Federation for Baseball.

The NCAA backed the high schools and junior colleges in seeking more votes in the new organization. The AAU opposed and it was voted down.

The NCAA wanted President Kennedy given authority to name three members of the board of directors to represent the public and help mediate the dispute. The AAU, which once favored this, opposed it and it was beaten.

As adopted by the committee, the armed forces membership was increased from one to four on the board of directors, and President Kennedy will name one non-voting member to represent the inter-agency committee on international sports.

The AAU remained in complete command throughout the session, winning every vote. And the net effect of the voting realignment is to give it further strength.

Tickets Go Fast For Packer-Bear Contest Sunday

CHICAGO (AP) — A block-long line started forming at 4:30 a.m. Monday at the Chicago Bears' downtown office to buy 1,500 standing room tickets for Sunday's National Football League game with the Green Bay Packers.

Standing-room tickets in the grand stand section of Wrigley Field were the only ones still available for the contest between the coleaders of the Western Division.

They went on sale at 9 a.m. and were snapped up in 40 minutes.

Each customer was limited to a maximum of four. They sold for $2.50 each. Seats in the grand stand sell for $4 and box seats are $5.

Back Of Week Scoring Whip

NEW YORK (AP) — It's one thing to drive a football team across the field into scoring territory and another to push the ball across for the touchdown.

Sometimes it is possible to become so enmeshed in the value of statistics that more attention is given to the touchdown makers than the men who make the touchdowns possible.

Such is not the case today in The Associated Press' Back of the Week—Bill Douglas, the 5-foot-11, 175-pound quarterback at the University of Washington.

Douglas made only one touchdown — a mere pittance when measured by the production of some of the country's other backs — but he had a hand and a foot in a half-dozen in the Huskies' 39-26 victory over California.

The 20-year-old junior signal-caller was the whip in scoring drives that covered 85, 77, 79, 90 and 48 yards and he also helped put the ball in position for a 32-yard field goal.

He completed 12 of 19 passes for 176 yards and gained 67 additional yards on option plays.

Roger Staubach of Navy and Billy Lothridge of Georgia Tech, two of the season's most consistent quarterbacks also had good days, but failed to measure up to Douglas in overall performance.

Staubach scored two touchdowns and passed for a third in running his season's individual yardage to 1,544, an all-time Naval Academy high, in the 42-7 victory over Maryland. Lothridge completed 20 of 34 passes in the 15-7 triumph over Florida State for 246 yards and had an overall total of 274 yards for the day.

Mistakes Beat Detroit Lions

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions have finally played a football game without losing a player from serious injury. But past injuries proved costly Sunday when the Lions lost, 24-21, to Baltimore.

A number of experienced hands were missing from the Detroit lineup, and the substitutes made mistakes, c o a c h George Wilson said Monday.

"Simple mistakes beat us," Wilson said. "The mistakes came mostly from the kids, the inexperienced guys.

"Everything c o n s i d e r e d, they've done a really great job. They deserve a lot of credit," he added.

"One big mistake — and it was inexperience — beat us. That was on John Mackey's 42-yard touchdown when Tom Hall (right safety and replacement for Yale Lary) got crossed up on the play," said Wilson.

Wilson pointed out that "we have only three of our original set of pass defenders."

Kelso Loses In Grass Race

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—A handy guide for bettors is "Horses for Courses." Mongo re-emphasized it Monday by taking the measure of champion Kelso in the Washington, D.C., International.

The course is grass.

Mongo had been beaten only once in five previous races on the turf. Kelso had won only once, a minor event at Saratoga in the same number of outings on grass.

Half of Kelso's grass races now have been in the International and each time he's been runnerup. He wasn't given a chance to try the turf between last year's International and the 12th running.

Mongo and Kelso together turned the International into a strictly American match race against eight others from six foreign nations. It was a dozen lengths back to the third place Nyrcos from France.

After the first half mile, during which Mongo twice repulsed Ireland's Christmas I s l a n d, there was only Kelso to make it a race. The champ also made two passes at Mongo but failed by one-half length.

Jockey Ismael Valenzuela tried to win for Kelso through a foul claim. All it did was hold up Mongo's $90,000 bite of the $150,000 in prize money for 23 nervous minutes.

For Mrs. Richard C. duPont, owner of Kelso, the $25,000 second prize was a solace as it left her 6-year-old gelding only less than $500,000 away from being the first earner of $2 million.

Kelso has earned $1,581,702 in 45 races, 31 of which he's won. . .Mongo, two years younger, is still only half way to his first million.

Hot Hands Give Pistons 116-109 Win Over L.A.

By The Associated Press

Bailey Howell had a bad hand, but Don Ohl and John Egan had hot hands.

Howell was out of the Detroit line-up Monday night but Ohl and Egan each scored 27 points and led the Pistons to a 116-109 National Basketball Association victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Lakers, however, held onto the Western Division lead as the second-place St. Louis Hawks lost to Boston's Eastern Division front-runners, 116-110 in the only other game scheduled. It was the ninth victory in 10 games for the Celtics.

Ohl put the Pistons ahead to stay early in the second quarter. Then Egan led a third quarter spurt after three baskets by Elgin Baylor had pulled Los Angeles to within four points at 65-61. Baylor led the Lakers with 28 points and Dick Barnett chipped in with 27.

Bill Russell led the Celtics with 20 points and 31 rebounds before leaving the game with 9½ minutes to play.

Jack Dempsey was involved in five of the eight million dollars boxing gates.

Big Ten Title Goal For MSU

EAST LANSING (AP)—Keeping the Spartan football express rolling is the main concern of Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty this week.

Daugherty first wants to make sure MSU won't be stopped by Notre Dame Saturday.

"The Big Ten championship means more to me than the Rose Bowl," Daugherty s a i d. "We have an opportunity now to tie for the championship and even win it outright."

Michigan State has b e a t e n Notre Dame the last seven games in a row.

The emphasis in p r a c t i c e Monday was on conditioning as the squad worked late in sweat clothes.

Fullback Joe Begeny h a d a knee sprain but was expected to be ready Saturday. Quarterback Dick Proebstle suffered a slight ankle twist but was running in practice.

An attendance of more than 70,000 is expected for this Saturday and for the season's finale against Illinois, at East Lansing.

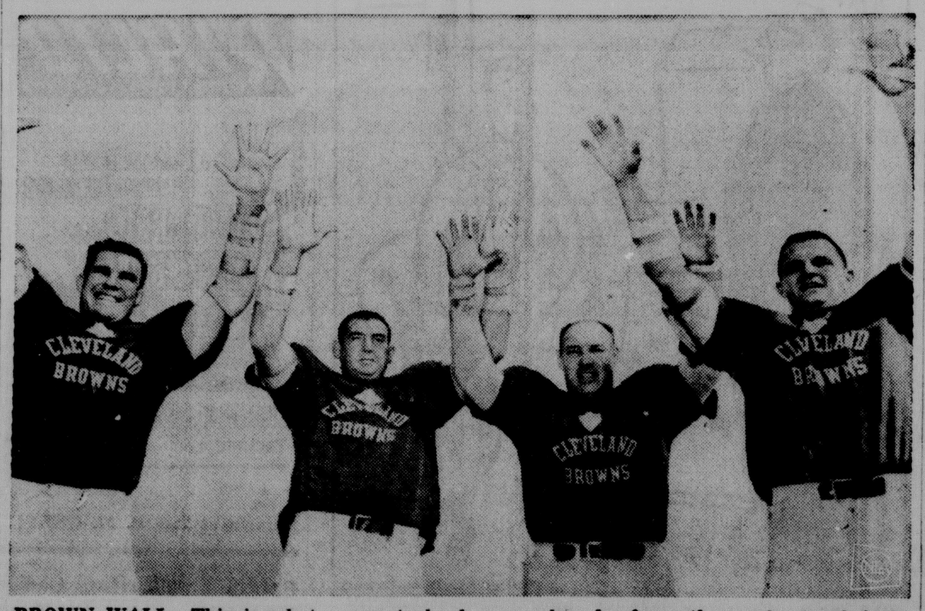

Star Players No Trade Bait, Says Lakers Owner

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Los Angeles Lakers owner Bob Short labeled as ridiculous rumors that his club's star players, Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, were possible trade bait with the Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association.

"The only way you can answer such a ridiculous rumor is with an equally ridiculous reply," Short said when contacted Monday night at the Lakers-Detroit Pistons game here.

"Everybody knows that Baylor and West are not for sale or trade regardless of the offer," he added. "I'm sure the management of the Baltimore ball club knows that."

He acknowledged that he had heard rumors of the trades. One proposed Baylor going to the Bullets even up for Walt Bellamy. The other had West, Jim Krebs and Frank Selvy being swapped for Bellamy.

Lansing Sexton Is 1963 Champ; Soo Finishes 6th

By The Associated Press

Hail the Champions — Lansing Sexton, Willow Run and Kalamazoo St. Augustine!

Those three today were named the No. 1 teams in their respective classses in the Associated Press, final high school football poll of 1963.

Sexton, which moved into first place in Class A only last week, also captured the Six-A League title. Coach Ross Maples' team won seven games and had one tie with East Lansing.

The Lansing school won the mythical state championship by 11 points over second-place Flint Central in the voting by the AP's statewide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Willow Run went undefeated in nine games to grab the Class B crown. Coach Duane Devlin, the only football coach Willow Run has ever had, saw his team whip five Class A opponents and record four shutouts.

Bad Axe finished as runner-up in Class B, with Hillsdale, Mount Morris and Dundee and Kingsford, which tied for fifth, following.

Kalamazoo St. Augustine closed its football history with a perfect 9-0 record to take the Class C-D title.

The Irish, coached by Dick Soisson and John Rapacz, will be replaced by the new Msgr. John R. Hackett High School next fall.

St. Joseph Catholic snapped a tie to place second among the state's smaller schools, while Saranac jumped two spots to finish in third.

Texas Retains Spot As No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — As the only major college team still unbeaten and untied, despite the slender margins of victory, Texas retained its spot as the nation's No. 1 football team this week.

The Longhorns were first on 48 of 53 ballots and took the top spot for the fifth straight week by a comfortable margin.

The panel of sports writers and broadcasters voting in the weekly Associated Press poll also meted out recognition as due to other winners and losers. Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma and Pitt rose in the rankings while Illinois, Auburn and Ohio State went down.

Texas, w i n n i n g its eighth straight game, had to go all out to win a squeaker from Baylor 7-0. That was the fourth in a row won by no more than a touchdown. Instead of discounting the Longhorns because of those margins, the experts gave them a whopping total of 526 points on the scoring basis of 10 points for a first place vote, nine for second, etc. That came on 48 firsts, four seconds and one vote for fifth.

Navy moved up f r o m fourth to second with 446 points, replacing Illinois, which skidded far down the list after a 14-8 loss to Michigan. The voters obviously were impressed by the ease with which the Midshipmen massacred Maryland 42-7. Mississippi, an easy 41-0 winner over Tampa, a minor opponent, remained in third. Michigan State climbed from ninth to fourth after trimming Purdue 23-0 and taking the Big Ten lead.

Behind them in the Top Ten came Oklahoma, Pitt, Alabama, Illinois, Auburn and Nebraska.

Oklahoma, a 24-14 winner over Iowa State, just nosed out Pitt for fifth in the point scoring, 284-281. Pitt's decisive 27-7 victory over Notre Dame lifted the Panthers from eighth place. Alabama, idle last Saturday, remained in seventh.

Auburn dropped from fifth to ninth after being edged by Mississippi State 13-10. Nebraska, holding its Big Eight lead with a 23-9 decision over Kansas, replaced Ohio State, a 10-7 loser to Penn State, as the ninth team.

The top ten teams with first place votes in parentheses and points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 sis:

Athletic Union Split Lingers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee has ended its last session before the 1964 Olympics with no permanent solution in sight for the split between the Amateur Athletic Union and the colleges.

Neither the AAU nor the National Collegiate Athletic Association showed any letup during the two-day biennial meeting of the hostilities that once threatened to wreck America's hopes next year in Tokyo. The meeting ended Monday.

After mediation by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, both sides agreed earlier this year to a truce in their conflict until after the 1964 Olympics.

However, this didn't stop both sides from maneuvering for more power on the Olympic Committee. They kept up a running battle throughout the two days.

Just before final adjournment, committee president Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson commented:

"I leave here with a heavy heart . . . I was sincere in my plea that we should not have bloc voting, that we should consider each issue on its merits."

The conflict began Sunday when AAU forces reversed the committee's board of directors on the question of granting a newly formed federation sanction to represent the United States on the International Federation for Baseball.

The NCAA backed the high schools and junior colleges in seeking more votes in the new organization. The AAU opposed and it was voted down.

The NCAA wanted President Kennedy given authority to name three members of the board of directors to represent the public and help mediate the dispute. The AAU, which once favored this, opposed it and it was beaten.

As adopted by the committee, the armed forces membership was increased from one to four on the board of directors, and President Kennedy will name one non-voting member to represent the inter-agency committee on international sports.

The AAU remained in complete command throughout the session, winning every vote. And the net effect of the voting realignment is to give it further strength.

Griffin Meets Carter Dec. 20

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Welterweight champion Emile Griffith and middleweight Rubin (Hurricane) Carter will meet Dec. 20 in a non-title 10-round boxing bout in Pittsburgh.

Tickets Go Fast For Packer-Bear Contest Sunday

CHICAGO (AP) — A block-long line started forming at 4:30 a.m. Monday at the Chicago Bears' downtown office to buy 1,500 standing room tickets for Sunday's National Football League game with the Green Bay Packers.

Standing-room tickets in the grand stand section of Wrigley Field were the only ones still available for the contest between the coleaders of the Western Division.

They went on sale at 9 a.m. and were snapped up in 40 minutes.

Each customer was limited to a maximum of four. They sold for $2.50 each. Seats in the grand stand sell for $4 and box seats are $5.

Mistakes Beat Detroit Lions

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions have finally played a football game without losing a player from serious injury. But past injuries proved costly Sunday when the Lions lost, 24-21, to Baltimore.

A number of experienced hands were missing from the Detroit lineup, and the substitutes made mistakes, c o a c h George Wilson said Monday.

"Simple mistakes beat us," Wilson said. "The mistakes came mostly from the kids, the inexperienced guys.

"Everything c o n s i d e r e d, they've done a really great job. They deserve a lot of credit," he added.

"One big mistake — and it was inexperience — beat us. That was on John Mackey's 42-yard touchdown when Tom Hall (right safety and replacement for Yale Lary) got crossed up on the play," said Wilson.

Wilson pointed out that "we have only three of our original set of pass defenders."

Kelso Loses In Grass Race

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—A handy guide for bettors is "Horses for Courses." Mongo re-emphasized it Monday by taking the measure of champion Kelso in the Washington, D.C., International.

The course is grass.

Mongo had been beaten only once in five previous races on the turf. Kelso had won only once, a minor event at Saratoga in the same number of outings on grass.

Half of Kelso's grass races now have been in the International and each time he's been runnerup. He wasn't given a chance to try the turf between last year's International and the 12th running.

Mongo and Kelso together turned the International into a strictly American match race against eight others from six foreign nations. It was a dozen lengths back to the third place Nyrcos from France.

After the first half mile, during which Mongo twice repulsed Ireland's Christmas I s l a n d, there was only Kelso to make it a race. The champ also made two passes at Mongo but failed by one-half length.

Jockey Ismael Valenzuela tried to win for Kelso through a foul claim. All it did was hold up Mongo's $90,000 bite of the $150,000 in prize money for 23 nervous minutes.

For Mrs. Richard C. duPont, owner of Kelso, the $25,000 second prize was a solace as it left her 6-year-old gelding only less than $500,000 away from being the first earner of $2 million.

Kelso has earned $1,581,702 in 45 races, 31 of which he's won. . .Mongo, two years younger, is still only half way to his first million.

Big Ten Title Goal For MSU

EAST LANSING (AP)—Keeping the Spartan football express rolling is the main concern of Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty this week.

Daugherty first wants to make sure MSU won't be stopped by Notre Dame Saturday.

"The Big Ten championship means more to me than the Rose Bowl," Daugherty s a i d. "We have an opportunity now to tie for the championship and even win it outright."

Michigan State has b e a t e n Notre Dame the last seven games in a row.

The emphasis in p r a c t i c e Monday was on conditioning as the squad worked late in sweat clothes.

Fullback Joe Begeny h a d a knee sprain but was expected to be ready Saturday. Quarterback Dick Proebstle suffered a slight ankle twist but was running in practice.

An attendance of more than 70,000 is expected for this Saturday and for the season's finale against Illinois, at East Lansing.

Fishing For Pay Is Busy Career

CORTLAND, N.Y. (AP)—This is the kind of life Leon Chandler has led—

He went directly from college to a career of fishing for pay. He's only 38 and isn't thinking of retiring. Just what would he retire to?

He is the vice-president of a company that makes fishing lines and as such he has visited virtually every lake and stream in the United States and many throughout the world. He's just returned home from an international fair at Poznan, Poland, where he represented 30 American firms and the fishing gear they make.

Fishing in Poland, as in the United States, is the country's greatest participant s p o r t. There are these differences: In the U.S. fishing must compete with golf, bowling, tennis, motoring and TV watching for the angler's time. In Poland there are few if any distractions. Besides that, a successful Polish fisherman eats better. Meat is scarce.

The Poles, then, were more than just interested in what Chandler had to show. They were amazed. What Americans consider commonplace, such as a push button spinning reel, is regarded as extreme luxury there. And the inexpensive lures, flies and special lines Americans take for granted are either non-existent or, when available, priced beyond Polish reach.

News of the amazing American fishing tackle spread like wildfire in Poland. Visiting U.S. Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., was told by a train engineer some 500 miles from Poznan that the U.S. fishing exhibit was the best thing at the International Fair. And a group of Russian army officers, including a general, requested a special demonstration by Chandler.

He obliged.

Touring Woman Golfer Runs Her Roll To $24,533

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The women's golf tour rolled on to Gulfport, Miss., today with Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., holding the San Antonio Civitan Open Championship — her seventh tournament victory of the year.

She ran her 1963 bankroll to $24,533 Monday as she took down first money of $1,300 by capturing a sudden death playoff from the acknowledged queen of the links—Mickey Wright.

Misses Whitworth and Wright tied at 72 holes with 299 and in the playoff Miss Whitworth was par 4 on the first hole while Miss Wright hit a sand trap and took a bogey five.

End Johnny Baker of the Houston Oilers was named the best defensive end in the Southeastern Conference last year at Mississippi State.

Palmer Leads With $128,230

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—America's top ten professional golfers have won $617,609 so far this year, led by Arnold Palmer with $128,230, according to a report from the Professional Golfers' Association.

Jack Nicklaus was second in winnings with $98,990, followed by Julius Boros with $77,356 and Tony Lema with $67,112.

Hot Hands Give Pistons 116-109 Win Over L.A.

By The Associated Press

Bailey Howell had a bad hand, but Don Ohl and John Egan had hot hands.

Howell was out of the Detroit line-up Monday night but Ohl and Egan each scored 27 points and led the Pistons to a 116-109 National Basketball Association victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Lakers, however, held onto the Western Division lead as the second-place St. Louis Hawks lost to Boston's Eastern Division front-runners, 116-110 in the only other game scheduled. It was the ninth victory in 10 games for the Celtics.

Ohl put the Pistons ahead to stay early in the second quarter. Then Egan led a third quarter spurt after three baskets by Elgin Baylor had pulled Los Angeles to within four points at 65-61. Baylor led the Lakers with 28 points and Dick Barnett chipped in with 27.

Bill Russell led the Celtics with 20 points and 31 rebounds before leaving the game with 9½ minutes to play.

Jack Dempsey was involved in five of the eight million dollars boxing gates.

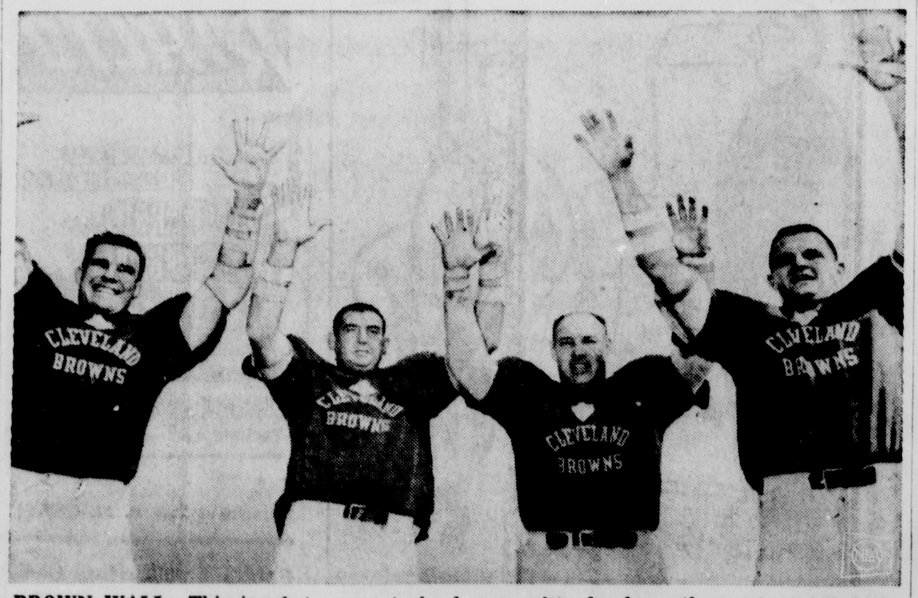

Star Players No Trade Bait, Says Lakers Owner

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Los Angeles Lakers owner Bob Short labeled as ridiculous rumors that his club's star players, Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, were possible trade bait with the Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association.

"The only way you can answer such a ridiculous rumor is with an equally ridiculous reply," Short said when contacted Monday night at the Lakers-Detroit Pistons game here.

"Everybody knows that Baylor and West are not for sale or trade regardless of the offer," he added. "I'm sure the management of the Baltimore ball club knows that."

He acknowledged that he had heard rumors of the trades. One proposed Baylor going to the Bullets even up for Walt Bellamy. The other had West, Jim Krebs and Frank Selvy being swapped for Bellamy.

BROWN WALL—This is what a quarterback sees when he faces the professional football Cleveland Browns. Left to right are end Bill Glass, 6-5, 255; tackle Frank Parker, 6-5, 255; tackle Bob Gain, 6-3, 260; and end Paul Wiggin, 6-3 and a mere 245.

Big Flap Over 111 U.N. Flags

A FEW OF THE 111: Security guards make their rounds of the U.N. flag lineup--from Afghanistan to Yugoslavia.

By TOM A. CULLEN

UNITED NATIONS (NEA) — The United Nations could do with a Betsy Ross, judging by the state of its flag department.

Such a Betsy Ross would have her hands full. When she wasn't stitching all night to complete the flag of some newly independent nation, she would find herself ripping up said flag in order to make last-minute changes.

Some of the newer United Nations members just can't make up their minds on what kind of flags they want.

One of these new nations was still making changes in the design of its flag on the morning that the banner was due to be raised ceremonially at U. N., headquarters. "Stop everything, we've just added a star," their delegate announced. So the flag was rushed by taxi to the manufacturer, who sewed on a star while the ceremony waited.

On another occasion a U. N. employe spotted an Ethiopian flag with a lion superimposed on it. Nathaniel Abelson, the U. N. flag expert, still isn't sure whether the lion is simply the personal emblem of the Emperor Haile Selassie, or whether Ethiopia has changed its flag without notifying the U. N.

And there is the case of the artist employed by a flag manufacturer who changed the lilies of the flag he was working on into hearts simply because the hearts appealed to his artistic sense.

★ ★ ★

Last-minute changes are the least of Abelson's worries. Nations, it seems, are extremely touchy about their flags because they represent sovereignty, and they insist that the flags be correct in every detail. A single misplaced crescent is enough to send the whole of Islam into a tizzy.

Inasmuch as Abelson, a former U. S. Naval officer, is responsible for the flags of the 111 member nations, his headaches are king-size.

"Actually, very few of the flags that fly in front of U. N. headquarters are correct as far as proportions are concerned," says Abelson. "We have had to standardize their size so that all nations will appear equal."

But the real nightmare of Abelson and the U. N. security officers is that flags will be flown upside down, or out of alphabetical order. This happens occasionally, but is usually discovered before much damage is done.

The 111 flags are flown in the alphabetical order of the nations represented, starting with Afghanistan and ending with Yugoslavia. In good weather they are run up on the poles at 8 a. m., daily, lowered at 4:30 p. m. The security guards have speeded up the operation to a half-hour each way. This includes folding and stacking in piles of 15.

★ ★ ★

If it is snowing or raining hard the flags are not raised at all. The decision to raise or not to raise rests with the night duty officer.

Also, no national flags are flown when a head of state dies, though the United Nations flag, itself, is flown at half-mast.

"Visitors get very disturbed if they don't see the flags flying at U. N.," says Lt. Ray Mahoney, an ex-Marine in charge of the security guards. "They think that something is wrong and they start pestering us with inquiries."

The life of a U. N. flag is a short one. The flags, which measure 4-by-6 feet and are made of nylon, soon become dirtied by Manhattan's atmosphere, and they have to be laundered every three or four months. In winter they are torn to ribbons by the raw winds which blow off of the East River. Altogether, a flag's life expectancy is about one year, and it costs $1,000 to replace the set.

Colleges Study 5-Year Course

By G.K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A major overhaul of college education, extending it from four years to five and postponing specialization until graduate school, was proposed here today by a university president.

Francis H. Horn of the University of Rhode Island said the education of broadly informed citizens can no longer be accomplished in the traditional four years.

Undergraduates should not be required to study some particular field in depth, Horn said, particularly "if such depth is at the expense of exposure to and understanding of some of the humanities, including the fine arts, the social sciences, and the natural sciences."

"The student," Horn added, "should be introduced to as many areas of the arts and sciences as possible. He shouldn't have to miss either chemistry or Shakespeare, art of anthropology."

Horn made his proposals in a speech at the annual meeting of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

In urging that college be extended from four years to five, Horn struck at one of the most hallowed traditions in higher education. The four-year college program has been handed down over the centuries from the Middle Ages.

"The inflexible academic lockstep must be broken," Horn said. "Some students may make it in four years; others will require six, depending upon the student's ability and application and the extent and quality of his secondary (high school) education."

Horn said he expected his proposal to do away with academic majors to be resisted.

"Pope's aphorism, 'a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, will be cited," he said. "But Pope was wrong.

"A little knowledge of Shelly, Moliere, or Tolstoy is better than no knowledge at all, so long as that little is accurate. Similarly, a little understanding of Keynesian economics, existentialism, or Soviet foreign policy is better than none at all, again provided that that little is accurate, and that the student possesses reasonable intelligence."

Killed Under Car

Goal For Early Retirement Set By UAW Leaders

DETROIT (AP)—United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther Monday encouraged a group of local leaders to continue their campaign to make early retirement the UAW's No. 1 demand in 1964 contract bargaining.

Reuther said, however, he could not endorse the program now because it will be up to the union's convention next April to decide on specific demands to present to the auto industry.

Reuther's comments at a meeting with leaders of seven locals from Flint, four from Saginaw and one each from Bay City, Pontiac and Lansing were reported by Bud Lawley, vice president of Chevrolet Local 659 of Flint.

Lawley and Jack Wagner, president of Buick Local 599 of Flint, are co-chairmen of a committee campaigning to put an early retirement plan at the head of union contract demands.

Big Flap Over 111 U.N. Flags

A FEW OF THE 111: Security guards make their rounds of the U.N. flag lineup--from Afghanistan to Yugoslavia.

By TOM A. CULLEN

UNITED NATIONS (NEA) — The United Nations could do with a Betsy Ross, judging by the state of its flag department.

Such a Betsy Ross would have her hands full. When she wasn't stitching all night to complete the flag of some newly independent nation, she would find herself ripping up said flag in order to make last-minute changes.

Some of the newer United Nations members just can't make up their minds on what kind of flags they want.

One of these new nations was still making changes in the design of its flag on the morning that the banner was due to be raised ceremonially at U. N., headquarters. "Stop everything, we've just added a star," their delegate announced. So the flag was rushed by taxi to the manufacturer, who sewed on a star while the ceremony waited.

On another occasion a U. N. employe spotted an Ethiopian flag with a lion superimposed on it. Nathaniel Abelson, the U. N. flag expert, still isn't sure whether the lion is simply the personal emblem of the Emperor Haile Selassie, or whether Ethiopia has changed its flag without notifying the U. N.

And there is the case of the artist employed by a flag manufacturer who changed the lilies of the flag he was working on into hearts simply because the hearts appealed to his artistic sense.

★ ★ ★

Last-minute changes are the least of Abelson's worries. Nations, it seems, are extremely touchy about their flags because they represent sovereignty, and they insist that the flags be correct in every detail. A single misplaced crescent is enough to send the whole of Islam into a tizzy.

Inasmuch as Abelson, a former U. S. Naval officer, is responsible for the flags of the 111 member nations, his headaches are king-size.

"Actually, very few of the flags that fly in front of U. N. headquarters are correct as far as proportions are concerned," says Abelson. "We have had to standardize their size so that all nations will appear equal."

But the real nightmare of Abelson and the U. N. security officers is that flags will be flown upside down, or out of alphabetical order. This happens occasionally, but is usually discovered before much damage is done.

The 111 flags are flown in the alphabetical order of the nations represented, starting with Afghanistan and ending with Yugoslavia. In good weather they are run up on the poles at 8 a. m., daily, lowered at 4:30 p. m. The security guards have speeded up the operation to a half-hour each way. This includes folding and stacking in piles of 15.

★ ★ ★

If it is snowing or raining hard the flags are not raised at all. The decision to raise or not to raise rests with the night duty officer.

Also, no national flags are flown when a head of state dies, though the United Nations flag, itself, is flown at half-mast.

"Visitors get very disturbed if they don't see the flags flying at U. N.," says Lt. Ray Mahoney, an ex-Marine in charge of the security guards. "They think that something is wrong and they start pestering us with inquiries."

The life of a U. N. flag is a short one. The flags, which measure 4-by-6 feet and are made of nylon, soon become dirtied by Manhattan's atmosphere, and they have to be laundered every three or four months. In winter they are torn to ribbons by the raw winds which blow off of the East River. Altogether, a flag's life expectancy is about one year, and it costs $1,000 to replace the set.

Colleges Study 5-Year Course

By G.K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A major overhaul of college education, extending it from four years to five and postponing specialization until graduate school, was proposed here today by a university president.

Francis H. Horn of the University of Rhode Island said the education of broadly informed citizens can no longer be accomplished in the traditional four years.

Undergraduates should not be required to study some particular field in depth, Horn said, particularly "if such depth is at the expense of exposure to and understanding of some of the humanities, including the fine arts, the social sciences, and the natural sciences."

"The student," Horn added, "should be introduced to as many areas of the arts and sciences as possible. He shouldn't have to miss either chemistry or Shakespeare, art of anthropology."

Horn made his proposals in a speech at the annual meeting of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

In urging that college be extended from four years to five, Horn struck at one of the most hallowed traditions in higher education. The four-year college program has been handed down over the centuries from the Middle Ages.

"The inflexible academic lockstep must be broken," Horn said. "Some students may make it in four years; others will require six, depending upon the student's ability and application and the extent and quality of his secondary (high school) education."

Horn said he expected his proposal to do away with academic majors to be resisted.

"Pope's aphorism, 'a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, will be cited," he said. "But Pope was wrong.

"A little knowledge of Shelly, Moliere, or Tolstoy is better than no knowledge at all, so long as that little is accurate. Similarly, a little understanding of Keynesian economics, existentialism, or Soviet foreign policy is better than none at all, again provided that that little is accurate, and that the student possesses reasonable intelligence."

Goal For Early Retirement Set By UAW Leaders

DETROIT (AP)—United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther Monday encouraged a group of local leaders to continue their campaign to make early retirement the UAW's No. 1 demand in 1964 contract bargaining.

Reuther said, however, he could not endorse the program now because it will be up to the union's convention next April to decide on specific demands to present to the auto industry.

Reuther's comments at a meeting with leaders of seven locals from Flint, four from Saginaw and one each from Bay City, Pontiac and Lansing were reported by Bud Lawley, vice president of Chevrolet Local 659 of Flint.

Lawley and Jack Wagner, president of Buick Local 599 of Flint, are co-chairmen of a committee campaigning to put an early retirement plan at the head of union contract demands.

Killed Under Car

MOUNT MORRIS (AP) — Elden Struble, father of four children, was killed Monday when his station wagon fell on him in his garage at his home near Mount Morris. Struble was installing an exhaust pipe when the vehicle apparently slipped from a bumper jack.

Mrs. Hoffman Dies Monday

Mrs. Hoffman

Mrs. Maude Hoffman, 75, of 311 Ogden Ave., prominently known resident of Escanaba, and widow of Arthur T. Hoffman, died at 12:25 a. m. Monday at St. Francis Hospital.

Mrs. Hoffman, who has lived in Escanaba a half century, was born April 17, 1888, in Whitby, Ontario, Canada, and her marriage took place in 1907. She was a retired Delta County social worker. Mr. Hoffman died in 1931 and her only survivors are nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Hoffman was a member of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church and the Women of St. Stephen's, Escanaba Country Club, Escanaba Business & Professional Women's Club, Escanaba Yacht Club and R. C. Hatheway Chapter 49, Order of the Eastern Star. She also was an honorary member of the Escanaba Woman's Club and was an active worker in the Republican party.

Friends may call at the Anderson Funeral Home after 4 p. m. Wednesday and the Eastern Star service will be conducted there at 8 p. m. The body will be removed at 1 p. m. Thursday to St. Stephen's Episcopal Church where services will be conducted at 2 p. m. by the Rev. Ben Helmer, rector. Burial will be in Lakeview Cemetery.

BURRS STOPPED BIKE

PRATT, Kan. (AP)—A cross-country cyclist ran into a prickly situation in Kansas.

Phil Lord, making a bicycle trip from Rochester, N. Y., to Santa Monica, Calif., spent several hours in this southwest Kansas town because sandburrs caused two flat tires on his bicycle.

Traverse City Flight To Stay

The "aerial bridge" air service from Escanaba to Lower Michigan is assured of continuance until some time next year, at least.

The continuance of the flight had been threatened by request of North Central Airline to the Civil Aeronautics Board to discontinue it because it has not been meeting its passenger loading minimums. The airline is required to report to CAB on the flight and its request for permission to discontinue was in line with its desire to protect its federal subsidy on operations, which is under tightening process because of CAB action.

The Michigan Aeronautics Commission has filed a request for a hearing by CAB on the request of North Central to discontinue the flight. This sets up a process which will take until some time next year to complete, so the flight will continue for several months. It is in the third year of a five year trial period.

As originally conceived and proposed to CAB in the Great Lakes Local Service Case many years ago, the flight was intended to improve transportation between the peninsulas of Michigan by providing direct over-Lake Michigan service between Michigan cities. Most inter-peninsula air traffic moves via Green Bay, Wis., which is a longer route.

The "aerial bridge" flight between Escanaba and Lower Peninsula cities has never realized the goals of its planners because it costs as much as the Green Bay flight although shorter and because it does not serve Lansing, a prime terminal for inter-peninsula travel. Upper Peninsulans believe that a U. P.-Lansing-Detroit route would be successful.

The flight is No. 395 north on North Central, originating at Willow Run, and serving Port Huron, Saginaw, Traverse City and Escanaba. It used to continue on to Marquette, but this segment has been dropped. The DC-3 airliner arrives in Escanaba and leaves as Flight 394 at 1:15 p. m. for return over the same route.

Briefly Told

The Classic League will bowl at 6:45 p. m today at the Holiday Bowl.

Janet Kay Juhl of 3101 14th Ave. S. has been ticketed by Escanaba police for failing to exercise due care.

Election and installation of officers and regular meeting of Delta Chapter 118, R. A. M., will be held at the Masonic Temple Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Ella E. Look of Gladstone Rte. 1 suffered minor injuries in a traffic mishap at 2nd Ave. N. and 12th St. at 6 p. m. Monday, it is reported by Escanaba police. She was taken to St. Francis Hospital by ambulance. Cars driven by Mrs. Look and Mrs. Donald Sharkey, Gladstone Rte. 1, collided at the intersection.

Accident Prevention was the subject of Fred Fisher's interesting and informative talk at the regular meeting of the Bay de Noc Toastmasters Club held last night at Marco's Restaurant. Other speakers were Ted Fordney speaking on the deer hunters theme, followed by Norbert Valind telling of the need for advertising to increase sales. John McCarthy served as toastmaster and table topics was presented by Tom Hughson. Master evaluator for the evening was Dwight Cochran. The next regular meeting will be held Nov. 25 at 6:30 p. m. at Marco's Restaurant.

Hunter Dies Of Gas Fumes

Tentative diagnosis of the cause of death of Evert Clouse, 47, of Lake Orion, Mich., found dead in his camper at Wiltsey Bay Sunday at 10:30 a. m., has been listed as carbon monoxide poisoning.

Clouse apparently died of fumes from a butane bottlegas heater in his camper unit. Dr. Guy Holmes of Menominee, pathologist at St. Francis Hospital, Escanaba, performed the autopsy and while the complete results have not been made known, the tentative diagnosis is carbon monoxide poisoning.

Evert Clouse was born Sept. 13, 1916 at Cadillac and came to Escanaba as a child with his parents. He attended the Flat Rock School. He lived in the Escanaba area until about 1940 when he moved to Lake Orion.

Surviving are his wife, the former Evelyn Oslund of Escanaba; five sons, Gary with the U. S. Air Force, Joel, Mack, Bob and Kim, all at home; one daughter, Suzanne, also at home; one brother, Percy of Groos; a sister, Mrs. James (Margaret) Hughes of Groos; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Clouse, also of Groos; and four grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Allens Funeral Home in Lake Orion where services will be conducted on Thursday. Burial will be in that city.

Battle Lines Drawn In Race To White House

doesn't start from a standing position."

The finance chairman displays a stack of Goldwater letters—most of them with checks attached. "Saturday's mail," he said.

He won't say how much money the draft movement has raised, but he displays dozens of checks—for up to $1,000—and stacks of pledges, promising more money when the senator declares himself in the presidential race.

Lankler says he expects to spend a lot of time on Capitol Hill and at the Republican National Committee.

"A lot of people say elections and nominations aren't won or lost in Washington," he adds. "Well, they aren't won in Indianapolis, either.

"Dollar for dollar and ounce for ounce, there are more political people in Washington than anywhere else."

With The Deer Hunters

At Dippels Ponderosa, Masonville, for hunting season are Joseph and Maurice DeSmet, Larry Silda, Roy Van Geison, Tony Osti, Irvin and Bud Gurnack, Neil Siber and Tony Conrad, all of Detroit.

Dennis Porath got his first deer, an 8-point buck, weighing 180 pounds, late Monday afternoon, while hunting in the vicinity of Hyde. Dennis, who is 15, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Porath of Hyde.

Two of a party hunting in the LaBranche area filled their licenses on Saturday, opening day of the season. First to bag a buck was Ed DeMerse, 404 S. 13th St., who downed a spikehorn, and later in the day Melvin Crepeau, 1304 N. 19th St., killed a seven-pointer.

Jim McCarthy of 1213 Delta Ave., Gladstone, and Jim Douglas of 1632 S. 16th St., Escanaba, filled their deer permits this weekend while hunting out of the Ben Douglas camp at Northland. McCarthy downed a 7-point buck about 11:30 a. m. Monday and Douglas bagged a spikehorn on Sunday.

Henry Pepin of 2220 12th Ave. N. is among the successful hunters who didn't have to go far afield for their bucks. Pepin, although recently out of a stay in the hospital, took his rifle into the woods back of the Delta County Sportsmen's Club last evening about 5:30 and down a four-pointer weighing 140 pounds.

Successful hunters at the Leo Lancour camp at Helps are Lancour, who brought down a 125 pound 4-pointer Saturday afternoon, and his son, Tom, who shot a spikehorn 15 minutes later. Others at the camp are Jack LaPine, Bark River, Glen Stade and son, Bob, Gladstone, Bill Sullivan, and two other sons of Leo Lancour, Tom and Terry.

Other hunters at the Home Place, Masonville, are William and James Morse of Lake Ann, Betty Cate, Solon, Dick and Andy Tercha, Utica, Jack McBain and Jack Hogeland, Lansing, Micky Roach and Bill and Lou Smith, Detroit, Angus Kittle Sr., and Angus Kittle Jr., Jim and Don DeMetrock, Fairgrove, Carl Gick, Flint and Ray Fox, Birch River.

Hunters at the Home Place, Masonville, who have been successful, are: Arthur Teinert, who resides there, a spikehorn, the opening morning of season, near McDonald Lake; Ray Bala, Grand Rapids, an 8-point buck, weighing 225 pounds, at Peninsula Point, Stonington; Burto Lotti, Grand Rapids, a doe, at Peninsula Point.

Ed Dippet, of Ponderosa, Masonville, also shot a doe in the West Branch area.

UNCHARMED SNAKES

Natives of India do not really charm snakes since snakes are deaf and, when they are being "charmed," they are only holding themselves on guard and would do the same thing without the music. They may sway in trying to follow the swaying of the player.

VETERANS DAY was observed in Escanaba with the firing of a volley at 11 a. m. Monday at Ludington and 11th Streets, with veterans of the area participating in the ceremony. The firing squad was commanded by Roy Baldwin. Slogan for Veterans Day was "Peace with Honor." (Daily Press Photo)

Jr. Achievement Forms 3 Firms

Escanaba's Junior Achievement program has organized three companies to operate in the 1963-64 fiscal year from its headquarters at 801½ Ludington St.

Red Tape Bars U.S. Help For Poor Of Peru

Belaunde, a man in a hurry, turned to the export-import bank. He felt that the road-building machines would not serve his broader purposes of improving farm production and water supply through self-help methods. Also it would cover only about five of his 144 rural centers.

"The bank said it would finance the purchase of machinery, but not of tools," Belaunde Told The Associated Press.

Bank officials said shovels, picks, hoes and crowbars which could be lost or stolen did not constitute a good risk.

Belaunde looked elsewhere.

"We have now arranged for a $10-million loan from Finland for the tools," he said, "and we plan to set up the 144 pools of farm implements which will be available to the peasants."

SOME INDIVIDUALISM

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Baltimore artist refused to buy a new automobile shown to her because its windshield was tinted. Glare or no glare, she said, she likes to see the colors of the world as they are.

Mrs. Nhu Delays Flight To Rome

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, battling exhaustion, has delayed a flight to Rome and a reunion with her three younger children.

Mrs. Nhu had planned to leave today for Rome, then either return to South Viet Nam directly or via Los Angeles, an informed source said.

South Viet Nam's former First Lady had said in private that she believes many of the ruling junta which overthrew her family's regime are still on her side, according to a source close to her.

She believes if she can return to Saigon before the first general election under the new regime she can regain support, the source said.

Mrs. Nhu had been vacillating for days over whether to bring the children, ages 15, 11 and 4 to Los Angeles or to meet them in Rome, said an aide.

She decided to leave for Rome today, but Monday night found herself unable to go on, the aide said.

A doctor said she was suffering from excessive fatigue, according to the aide.

An informed source said Mrs. Nhu, who had been planning to remain for at least six months in Los Angeles, may now settle her younger children in Rome and Le Thuy in medical school in Paris and return only briefly to the United States.

Mystery Blast Destroys Home At Otisville

OTISVILLE (AP) — State police and Genesee County authorities today investigated a mysterious explosion, believed from dynamite, that destroyed a home near here Monday.

Police said the home owner, Harold Gower, a land clearer, told them a personal enemy may have been responsible. He did elaborate.

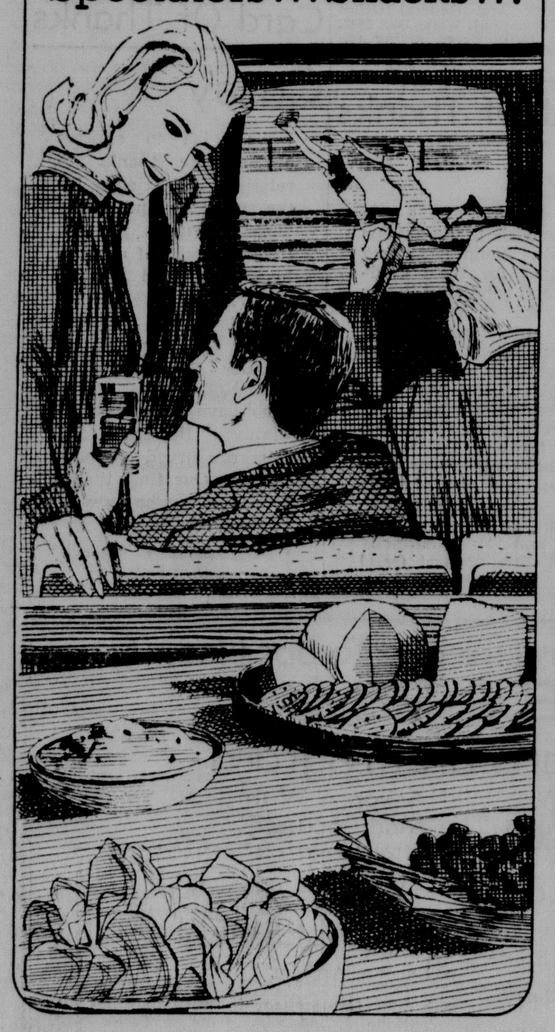

The home, on M 15 south of here, was unoccupied at the time of the shattering blast.

All the Gowers' six children were in school. Gower and his wife had left about a half hour before the explosion.

Police said dynamite apparently had been left in a utility room of the house.

Mrs. Hoffman Dies Monday

Mrs. Hoffman

Mrs. Maude Hoffman, 75, of 311 Ogden Ave., prominently known resident of Escanaba, and widow of Arthur T. Hoffman, died at 12:25 a. m. Monday at St. Francis Hospital.

Mrs. Hoffman, who has lived in Escanaba a half century, was born April 17, 1888, in Whitby, Ontario, Canada, and her marriage took place in 1907. She was a retired Delta County social worker. Mr. Hoffman died in 1931 and her only survivors are nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Hoffman was a member of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church and the Women of St. Stephen's, Escanaba Country Club, Escanaba Business & Professional Women's Club, Escanaba Yacht Club and R. C. Hatheway Chapter 49, Order of the Eastern Star. She also was an honorary member of the Escanaba Woman's Club and was an active worker in the Republican party.

Friends may call at the Anderson Funeral Home after 4 p. m. Wednesday and the Eastern Star service will be conducted there at 8 p. m. The body will be removed at 1 p. m. Thursday to St. Stephen's Episcopal Church where services will be conducted at 2 p. m. by the Rev. Ben Helmer, rector. Burial will be in Lakeview Cemetery.

BURRS STOPPED BIKE

PRATT, Kan. (AP)—A cross-country cyclist ran into a prickly situation in Kansas.

Phil Lord, making a bicycle trip from Rochester, N. Y., to Santa Monica, Calif., spent several hours in this southwest Kansas town because sandburrs caused two flat tires on his bicycle.

Traverse City Flight To Stay

The "aerial bridge" air service from Escanaba to Lower Michigan is assured of continuance until some time next year, at least.

The continuance of the flight had been threatened by request of North Central Airline to the Civil Aeronautics Board to discontinue it because it has not been meeting its passenger loading minimums. The airline is required to report to CAB on the flight and its request for permission to discontinue was in line with its desire to protect its federal subsidy on operations, which is under tightening process because of CAB action.

The Michigan Aeronautics Commission has filed a request for a hearing by CAB on the request of North Central to discontinue the flight. This sets up a process which will take until some time next year to complete, so the flight will continue for several months. It is in the third year of a five year trial period.

As originally conceived and proposed to CAB in the Great Lakes Local Service Case many years ago, the flight was intended to improve transportation between the peninsulas of Michigan by providing direct over-Lake Michigan service between Michigan cities. Most inter-peninsula air traffic moves via Green Bay, Wis., which is a longer route.

The "aerial bridge" flight between Escanaba and Lower Peninsula cities has never realized the goals of its planners because it costs as much as the Green Bay flight although shorter and because it does not serve Lansing, a prime terminal for inter-peninsula travel. Upper Peninsulans believe that a U. P.-Lansing-Detroit route would be successful.

The flight is No. 395 north on North Central, originating at Willow Run, and serving Port Huron, Saginaw, Traverse City and Escanaba. It used to continue on to Marquette, but this segment has been dropped. The DC-3 airliner arrives in Escanaba and leaves as Flight 394 at 1:15 p. m. for return over the same route.

Briefly Told

The Classic League will bowl at 6:45 p. m today at the Holiday Bowl.

Janet Kay Juhl of 3101 14th Ave. S. has been ticketed by Escanaba police for failing to exercise due care.

Election and installation of officers and regular meeting of Delta Chapter 118, R. A. M., will be held at the Masonic Temple Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Ella E. Look of Gladstone Rte. 1 suffered minor injuries in a traffic mishap at 2nd Ave. N. and 12th St. at 6 p. m. Monday, it is reported by Escanaba police. She was taken to St. Francis Hospital by ambulance. Cars driven by Mrs. Look and Mrs. Donald Sharkey, Gladstone Rte. 1, collided at the intersection.

Accident Prevention was the subject of Fred Fisher's interesting and informative talk at the regular meeting of the Bay de Noc Toastmasters Club held last night at Marco's Restaurant. Other speakers were Ted Fordney speaking on the deer hunters theme, followed by Norbert Valind telling of the need for advertising to increase sales. John McCarthy served as toastmaster and table topics was presented by Tom Hughson. Master evaluator for the evening was Dwight Cochran. The next regular meeting will be held Nov. 25 at 6:30 p. m. at Marco's Restaurant.

He won't say how much money the draft movement has raised, but he displays dozens of checks—for up to $1,000—and stacks of pledges, promising more money when the senator declares himself in the presidential race.

Lankler says he expects to spend a lot of time on Capitol Hill and at the Republican National Committee.

"A lot of people say elections and nominations aren't won or lost in Washington," he adds. "Well, they aren't won in Indianapolis, either.

"Dollar for dollar and ounce for ounce, there are more political people in Washington than anywhere else."

Hunter Dies Of Gas Fumes

Tentative diagnosis of the cause of death of Evert Clouse, 47, of Lake Orion, Mich., found dead in his camper at Wiltsey Bay Sunday at 10:30 a. m., has been listed as carbon monoxide poisoning.

Clouse apparently died of fumes from a butane bottlegas heater in his camper unit. Dr. Guy Holmes of Menominee, pathologist at St. Francis Hospital, Escanaba, performed the autopsy and while the complete results have not been made known, the tentative diagnosis is carbon monoxide poisoning.

Evert Clouse was born Sept. 13, 1916 at Cadillac and came to Escanaba as a child with his parents. He attended the Flat Rock School. He lived in the Escanaba area until about 1940 when he moved to Lake Orion.

Surviving are his wife, the former Evelyn Oslund of Escanaba; five sons, Gary with the U. S. Air Force, Joel, Mack, Bob and Kim, all at home; one daughter, Suzanne, also at home; one brother, Percy of Groos; a sister, Mrs. James (Margaret) Hughes of Groos; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Clouse, also of Groos; and four grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Allens Funeral Home in Lake Orion where services will be conducted on Thursday. Burial will be in that city.

With The Deer Hunters

At Dippels Ponderosa, Masonville, for hunting season are Joseph and Maurice DeSmet, Larry Silda, Roy Van Geison, Tony Osti, Irvin and Bud Gurnack, Neil Siber and Tony Conrad, all of Detroit.

Dennis Porath got his first deer, an 8-point buck, weighing 180 pounds, late Monday afternoon, while hunting in the vicinity of Hyde. Dennis, who is 15, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Porath of Hyde.

Two of a party hunting in the LaBranche area filled their licenses on Saturday, opening day of the season. First to bag a buck was Ed DeMerse, 404 S. 13th St., who downed a spikehorn, and later in the day Melvin Crepeau, 1304 N. 19th St., killed a seven-pointer.

Jim McCarthy of 1213 Delta Ave., Gladstone, and Jim Douglas of 1632 S. 16th St., Escanaba, filled their deer permits this weekend while hunting out of the Ben Douglas camp at Northland. McCarthy downed a 7-point buck about 11:30 a. m. Monday and Douglas bagged a spikehorn on Sunday.

Henry Pepin of 2220 12th Ave. N. is among the successful hunters who didn't have to go far afield for their bucks. Pepin, although recently out of a stay in the hospital, took his rifle into the woods back of the Delta County Sportsmen's Club last evening about 5:30 and down a four-pointer weighing 140 pounds.

Successful hunters at the Leo Lancour camp at Helps are Lancour, who brought down a 125 pound 4-pointer Saturday afternoon, and his son, Tom, who shot a spikehorn 15 minutes later. Others at the camp are Jack LaPine, Bark River, Glen Stade and son, Bob, Gladstone, Bill Sullivan, and two other sons of Leo Lancour, Tom and Terry.

Other hunters at the Home Place, Masonville, are William and James Morse of Lake Ann, Betty Cate, Solon, Dick and Andy Tercha, Utica, Jack McBain and Jack Hogeland, Lansing, Micky Roach and Bill and Lou Smith, Detroit, Angus Kittle Sr., and Angus Kittle Jr., Jim and Don DeMetrock, Fairgrove, Carl Gick, Flint and Ray Fox, Birch River.

Hunters at the Home Place, Masonville, who have been successful, are: Arthur Teinert, who resides there, a spikehorn, the opening morning of season, near McDonald Lake; Ray Bala, Grand Rapids, an 8-point buck, weighing 225 pounds, at Peninsula Point, Stonington; Burto Lotti, Grand Rapids, a doe, at Peninsula Point.

Ed Dippet, of Ponderosa, Masonville, also shot a doe in the West Branch area.

UNCHARMED SNAKES

Natives of India do not really charm snakes since snakes are deaf and, when they are being "charmed," they are only holding themselves on guard and would do the same thing without the music. They may sway in trying to follow the swaying of the player.

VETERANS DAY was observed in Escanaba with the firing of a volley at 11 a. m. Monday at Ludington and 11th Streets, with veterans of the area participating in the ceremony. The firing squad was commanded by Roy Baldwin. Slogan for Veterans Day was "Peace with Honor." (Daily Press Photo)

Belaunde, a man in a hurry, turned to the export-import bank. He felt that the road-building machines would not serve his broader purposes of improving farm production and water supply through self-help methods. Also it would cover only about five of his 144 rural centers.

"The bank said it would finance the purchase of machinery, but not of tools," Belaunde Told The Associated Press.

Bank officials said shovels, picks, hoes and crowbars which could be lost or stolen did not constitute a good risk.

Belaunde looked elsewhere.

"We have now arranged for a $10-million loan from Finland for the tools," he said, "and we plan to set up the 144 pools of farm implements which will be available to the peasants."

SOME INDIVIDUALISM

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Baltimore artist refused to buy a new automobile shown to her because its windshield was tinted. Glare or no glare, she said, she likes to see the colors of the world as they are.

Mrs. Nhu Delays Flight To Rome

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, battling exhaustion, has delayed a flight to Rome and a reunion with her three younger children.

Mrs. Nhu had planned to leave today for Rome, then either return to South Viet Nam directly or via Los Angeles, an informed source said.

South Viet Nam's former First Lady had said in private that she believes many of the ruling junta which overthrew her family's regime are still on her side, according to a source close to her.

She believes if she can return to Saigon before the first general election under the new regime she can regain support, the source said.

Mrs. Nhu had been vacillating for days over whether to bring the children, ages 15, 11 and 4 to Los Angeles or to meet them in Rome, said an aide.

She decided to leave for Rome today, but Monday night found herself unable to go on, the aide said.

A doctor said she was suffering from excessive fatigue, according to the aide.

An informed source said Mrs. Nhu, who had been planning to remain for at least six months in Los Angeles, may now settle her younger children in Rome and Le Thuy in medical school in Paris and return only briefly to the United States.

Mystery Blast Destroys Home At Otisville

OTISVILLE (AP) — State police and Genesee County authorities today investigated a mysterious explosion, believed from dynamite, that destroyed a home near here Monday.

Police said the home owner, Harold Gower, a land clearer, told them a personal enemy may have been responsible. He did elaborate.

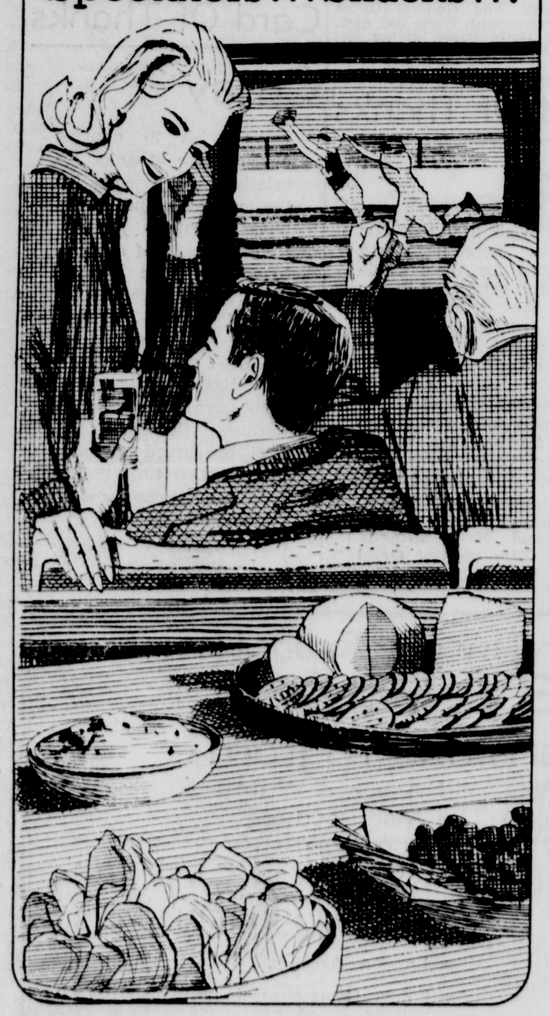

The home, on M 15 south of here, was unoccupied at the time of the shattering blast.

All the Gowers' six children were in school. Gower and his wife had left about a half hour before the explosion.
